

BISSEY PLANS CLASSIFICATION TAXATION BILL

Measure Will Be Offered in House as Substitute for One Now Being Considered.

RULES COMMITTEE IN CHARGE TODAY

Powerful Body Will Control Legislation for Next 14 Days—Senate Busy on Appropriations.

When the house of representatives this afternoon resumes consideration of the proposed constitutional amendment to permit classification of property for taxation, a substitute bill will be introduced, designed to simplify the entire proposition. Representative Bissey, of Crisp, made this announcement Sunday night, stating that he would introduce his substitute as soon as debate on the measure starts again at 8 o'clock.

This morning the house will take up, as unfinished business, debate on the measure proposing to make special appropriations of the surplus revenue received from gasoline in proportion to the number of automobiles in the original act imposing this fee, which says that any surplus shall be used for agricultural purposes.

Fight Over Gas Fees.

The bill as originally drawn appropriates the surplus to the college of agriculture, experimental stations and district A. & M. schools, but a substitute also is under consideration which appropriates $500,000 to the common schools and any balance left to the agricultural institutions.

When the measure was originally introduced 146 members signed it as authors and it is expected to pass when the final vote is taken.

In the senate chief interest centers in the appropriation bill, which, after passage by the house, is now under consideration by the senate committee. The senate is expected to restore the $500,000 cut by the house from the market bureau appropriation, as well as the salary appropriation for the chief oil inspector and his clerk. Some other amendments also are considered likely, chiefly a disagreement with the house action in lopping $10,000 off the annual contingent printing fund.

Conference Committee.

If the house fails to agree with any senate changes in the bill a conference committee will be next in order to try and bring harmony between the two legislative branches.

The house rules committee will take charge of the calendar this morning, under the rule which makes it a steering committee for the first 14 days of the session. "While the committee has not yet announced its calendar for the coming week, it is understood that it will agree with the motion already carried, setting the classification tax for consideration at 3 o'clock this afternoon. However, the committee probably will add a proviso to the effect that the final vote is to be taken not later than 11:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The proposed income tax amendment will be the next bill on the calendar, also with a proviso that final vote is to be taken at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

What is expected to prove the final session of the special senate committee investigating the state highway department is set for this afternoon at which time Chairman John N. Holder probably will go on the stand. Attorney Sam L. Olive, for the department, is expected to appear.

Atlanta Civic Bodies To Aid In Labor Fete

Annual Celebration To Be Made Big Boost for City.

Creation of an advisory committee composed of representatives of leading Atlanta civic organizations to help make Labor day, September 7, a great civic festival at which a real shoulder to shoulder forward movement can be launched by all civic interests for Atlanta was voted by more than 50 members of the Labor day committee of the Atlanta Federation of Trades at its session in the Labor Temple Sunday afternoon.

Following the meeting a letter was prepared by Louis P. Marquardt, president of the federation and chairman of the Labor day committee, which is to be mailed today to presidents of a number of civic and business organizations, asking appointment by each president of three members to act on the advisory board.

Reports of the finance, parade, entertainment and other sub-committees of the federation Labor day committee were made prior to creation of the advisory committee and indicated that funds, already subscribed will enable a larger program of entertainment and cooperation and will insure a more impressive parade than in recent years.

On the item of fireworks alone, one feature of the celebration planned for the night of Labor day in Grant park, the appropriation has

Ennis Is Planning To Enter Campaign For Governorship

STEADY BUSINESS GROWTH FOR CITY SEEN BY KINGDON

V. H. Kriegshaber and Son Discard Plan To Enter Florida Field and Will Concentrate Here.

PLAN TO CENTER BUSINESS HERE

Atlanta's Growth Distinguished By Its Steadfastness and Stability, Business Men Assert.

Increased activity in building in Atlanta in the last few weeks and unmistakable signs of more activity in all lines of commerce has led the firm of V. H. Kriegshaber and Son to center all its energies in its Atlanta trade and to discard tentative plans to establish a branch house in Florida. This tangible evidence of the faith of a big firm in Atlanta: of the justification of this faith; and of the certainty of steady and broad expansion in Atlanta was made public Sunday in an interview with William Kingdon, member of that firm.

"In the last few weeks our business in Atlanta has shown such a steady and such a satisfactory increase that we have decided to center all our business here," Mr. Kingdon said. "In fact, in the very last few days we have received business of a nature which indicates with absolute certainty that Atlanta is within a short time to witness an era of broad and rapid expansion."

Kingdon Enthusiastic.

Mr. Kingdon is the first of a group of Atlanta business men interviewed by The Constitution relative to present business conditions and to future prospects of improvement. He spoke with much enthusiasm and conviction of the latent conditions here which will bring this city to the most with its greatest period of business success within the next year in his opinion.

"Like other business houses we have surveyed the Florida field where there is much speculative activity now and in surveying that field we naturally scrutinized our home territory with more care than usual. In our survey of Atlanta and her tributary trade territory we found amazing figures. We found such a situation as to not only justify the centering of our activities here in the future but found to our satisfaction that this city is on a firmer business basis than ever before in its history."

Mr. Kingdon declared that Atlanta's growth is distinguished chiefly because of its steadiness and its stability.

Few Speculative Features.

"There are few speculative features about the future of Atlanta," Mr. Kingdon said. "The record of the city shows that virtually every person who ever invested in this city has profited. A man who invests $50,000 now in Atlanta is certain to have $50,000 worth of property at least, but in some of the speculative fields there is a different story to tell. We had formed some tentative plans to establish a branch house in Florida but after our survey of conditions there and our survey of our conditions in Atlanta we decided to center all our business here. We are going to keep all our eggs in one basket and we are going to keep the basket in Atlanta."

Mr. Kingdon is a member of a firm which deals largely in building materials and his business is one of the kind which is one of the first to feel the effects of business expansion and

GRAVES FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY

Body of Noted Georgian Arrives at Brookwood Station Sunday Afternoon.

The body of John Temple Graves, 69, noted orator and journalist, who died Saturday at the residence in Washington, arrived at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Brookwood station over the Southern railway and was taken to the undertaking parlors of H. M. Patterson & Son, where it will remain until funeral services at 11 o'clock this morning.

The casket was covered with beautiful floral offerings sent in token of the high esteem in which the southern writer was held by a host of friends throughout the country. A number of prominent Atlantans met the funeral party, which included Mrs. Graves and John Temple Graves, junior.

The Rev. Dr. Dunbar Ogden, of Mobile, former pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, will officiate at Formal Announcement Is Expected After Conference of Friends To Be Held in Atlanta.

PROBES MARKET BUREAU CHARGES

Senate Leader Quoted as Denying Alignment With Any Political Machine or Secret Order.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Macon, Ga., August 9.—The Macon morning paper that ran a story tomorrow morning that Howard Ennis, of Milledgeville, president of the state senate will be a candidate for governor next year.

The story carries with it an interview with Mr. Ennis.

"All that remains before the formal announcement is made is a conference between his friends and supporters over the state to be held in Atlanta during the middle of next week," says the story.

Not Allied to "Machine."

The Telegraph quotes Mr. Ennis as making the announcement and adds: "Mr. Ennis stated emphatically that the race would be made on his own merits, using his past record in service the state and that he was not allied with the 'Brown machine,' or any other political faction, Ku Klux Klan or any other secret order."

"I will run on the platform that the state needs a sound, conservative, business administration and hope that the people will see fit to place me in the governor's chair. I will take the stump and appeal to the business man, farmers and laboring people on this ground."

Mr. Ennis is quoted further: "In his statement denying that he was in league with the so-called 'Brown machine,' Mr. Ennis cited his record while a member of the house of representatives. Then it quotes Mr. Ennis as saying:

"I have no fight to make on the agricultural department or any of the other departments, but if I am elected governor I intend to make inquiries into each one's affairs from time to time."

Probes Market Bureau Charges.

As to the present fight on the Bureau of Markets Mr. Ennis is quoted as saying that the measure would stand on its own merits when it reaches the senate.

"I have asked Mr. Knight, of Bergen county, to inquire into the charges made by Mr. Miller that $8,000 was spent for telegrams, $24,000 for the actual publication of the paper and $48,000 for salaries in this department."

"As to my committee appointments, I will be glad for anyone to make a study of them and consult anyone about the charges. I will find that I was not influenced by anyone."

Mr. Ennis who is registered at the Kimball house during the session of the legislature, could not be reached Sunday night for a statement.

SUNDAY DANCING ENJOYED AT TYBEE IN SPIKE OF LAW

Savannah, Ga., August 9.—(AP)—Tybee Island today when the orchestra on Durden and Power pavilion began to play enticing tunes, everyone around the dance pavilion put on an extra expectant look.

First one couple and then another started to skirt the enclosure and as the afternoon progressed the number of dancers increased. So far as Tybee knew, Governor Walker had signed no anti-dancing bill.

'Riding Rails,' Two Boys Hurt As Cars Jam

Youths Making Way to Florida Seriously Injured at Cordele.

Cordele, Ga., August 9.—(Special.) Hoyt Hall, 14, of Austell, and Edgar Gibbs, 14, of Gainesville, Ga., while "riding the rails," were jammed between the end of a car of steel rails and the steel end of a coal car when their train was hit hard by the engine, leaving Cordele this afternoon and for an hour, a desperate effort to release them was waged by some 500 people, who were attracted when the flagman heard the cries of the boys and sought aid just before the train got under way to Florida.

Gas torches were brought and an effort made to cut away the steel, but the engineer of the train finally insisting that he be allowed to hit the car and release them, did so. Two joists of this kind freed them from what looked like a horrible death trap.

Hurried to the local sanitarium, their wounds were examined and X-rayed. Both have internal injuries, but they have a chance to recover.

The boys are cousins, the one son of a restaurant operator, Paul H. Hall, at Austell, and the other the son of a carpenter, George Gibbs, at Gainesville. They said they decided to run away and go to Florida last Friday and had reached here when the accident occurred.

FRENCH MASS FOR BIG DRIVE UPON RIFFIANS

Divisions Massing in Region of Ouezzan Preparatory to Decisive Attack on Tribesmen.

LEADERS SEE NEED OF QUICK ACTION

Capture of Amergou, Natural Fortress, Breaks Morale of Several Hostile Riffian Tribes.

BY JOHN O'BRIEN.

(Copyright, 1925, by United News.)

Fez, French Morocco, August 9.—As modern airplanes continue to drop their terrifying bombardments on plucky tribesmen, the mighty military forces of France are concentrating in the region of Ouezzan for a crushing assault on the Riffians of Abd-el-Krim.

For several days the French troops columns have been operating with great secrecy in this sector and it is now revealed that the bulk of them are massed northwest of Ouezzan, where it is extremely likely that they will begin an important general offensive in cooperation with the Spaniards. This offensive is expected hourly.

Apparently the French generals have decided that some such offensive must be launched because of the unprecedented nature of the warfare which they are facing, and with the reinforcements which have poured into Morocco in the past few weeks, they are now prepared to proceed.

I spent Wednesday and Thursday nights at Kala Des Sless and observed a situation which is typical of the entire central and eastern sectors of the battle front.

Post Is Safe.

Though there was incessant rifle fire around us, the post was comparatively safe. But as soon as General Billotte's column had passed on to the westward, groups of enemy tribesmen reappeared and practically surrounded the post.

Such happenings are of weekly occurrence and they necessitate constant dashes through the most difficult kind of country to relieve and revictual the thirty or forty advanced posts, which are from 20 to 30 miles apart.

When the flying columns are absent, the French merely hold what territory they can under the guns of the posts. The post garrisons are insufficient to permit any patrolling of the intervening hills.

The capture of the Riffians' natural fortress of Amergou is important in itself, but even more important because of its probable consequences. The French believe the capture will greatly influence the neighboring Riffians who considered the mountain stronghold a most valuable one, especially because the native mind is deeply impressed by numerous legends attaching for the fortress.

Bombers Give Aid.

The capture of Amergou, the most impressive in the central sector in many days, was due in large part to the deadly aim of the French air bombers and also to a movement toward submission to the French which the general staff reacts more and more into the hearts of some of the dissident tribes.

One hopeful sign is seen in the submission of 173 families of the Ouled Bedder tribe, who have given up their rifles. These natives belong to the important Mesquidia tribe, which has hitherto fought bitterly against the French.

Wales Visits Tiny Island Where Napoleon Was Prisoner

PRINCE REVIEWS "ARMY" OF 14 SOLDIERS

BY G. WARD PRICE.

St. Helena, August 9.—Martial honors were provided for the Prince of Wales on arrival at St. Helena. The tiny island, which is little more than a dot in the Southern Atlantic and has a total population of less than 4,000 persons, has not felt so important since the days when Napoleon was a prisoner here.

From the decks of the giant warship Repulse, whose gray bulk well-nigh dwarfed the island, the prince came ashore in the morning and was received by the entire standing army of St. Helena, consisting of 14 men, whom he reviewed with the same serious punctiliousness which he would have shown for a garrison of as many thousands.

Throughout his stay, the prince was attended by the entire police force of the island, consisting of five men.

After the usual ceremonies at the government offices, the prince visited Longwood house, where Napoleon died, and then spent the afternoon driving up into the chaos of steep hills for a game of golf on a course that lies among grand scenery than perhaps any other links in the world. The island of St. Helena has diminished in importance since the days when it was Napoleon's place of exile. The opening of the Suez canal terminated its importance as a stepping-stone for all the commerce and traffic on the road to Mandalay, and it is now visited by perhaps 50 or 60 ships a year, where once it numbered its yearly commerce in the hundreds. It is still an important cable station, and its natural position and formation make it a second Gibraltar or Heligoland to those who speak in terms of imperial defense.

MISSING GERMAN CHEMIST PUTS BULLET INTO HIS HEAD AS POLICE ENTER APARTMENT

STINNES' ESTATE PROBABLY GOING INTO BANKRUPTCY

Liabilities Estimated at $45,000,000—Friends Claim German Banks Are Raiding Assets.

FAMILY IS SPLIT ON MANAGEMENT

Banks Said To Be Sacrificing Choicest Securities in Liquidating Debts of Former Magnate.

Berlin, August 9.—The industrial and commercial kingdom of the late Hugo Stinnes is going into bankruptcy, according to the Rheinische Westfälische, an organ of Ruhr industrialists.

Edward Stinnes, the late magnate's eldest son, and Hugo, Jr., have not been able to hold together the immense fabric of hotels, newspapers, mines, shipping lines, smelters and allied businesses and industries, which their father added to the line of canal barges with which he started out in business as a young man.

The elder Stinnes was the most powerful industrialist in Germany during the years immediately after the war. When he died, he passed his tremendous interests on to his family.

Liabilities of the Stinnes family now amount to $45,000,000, according to the Ruhr paper, and it will be necessary to liquidate the entire holdings to discharge them.

BANKS CALLED RUTHLESS IN SELLING SECURITIES

Berlin, August 9.—(AP)—Friends of the late Hugo Stinnes, German industrial magnate, are highly incensed over the ruthless manner in which a group of banks is disposing of the Stinnes family's choicest industrial stocks, some of which are alleged to have been sold at considerably less than current bourse ratings.

It is stated that unless the banks alter their methods, the Stinnes organization will declare bankruptcy or ask for court supervision of the liquidation.

When the Stinnes concern recently found itself unable to cover a heavy line of short term credits, the family council consented to give a group of banks, including the Deutsche bank and the Darmstädter National bank, the power of attorney, which it was presumed would be exercised in a manner calculated to conserve the family interests while the same time guaranteeing the banks necessary covering.

It now is asserted that neither Mrs. Hugo Stinnes, nor the 27-year-old Hugo Stinnes, Jr., has been consulted during the liquidation and that blocks of the most valuable industrial shares which formed the nucleus of the Stinnes fortune literally have been slaughtered in the general scramble which in bourse circles has become known as "picking the bones of Hugo Stinnes."

"The banks finally got Stinnes, but not until he was dead," a friend of the late magnate observed as he recalled the running fight Stinnes carried on with banking institutions during his life time. During his career Stinnes insisted that banks should be the handmaids of industry. He would not accept the more familiar view that financing should take precedence over industry.

Members of the banking group conducting the Stinnes liquidation declared that at the same time guaranteeing the banks necessary covering.

M'Adoo Asked Hylan To Run On His Ticket

New York Mayor Declares Tammany Ungrateful in Supporting Walker.

New York, August 9.—(AP)—Mayor Hylan, in a statement tonight, said that during the last democratic convention William G. McAdoo asked him if he would consider the nomination for vice president on a McAdoo ticket. Out of loyalty to Tammany Hall, the mayor said he refused and instead, under request of an emissary of Governor Smith, went to William Randolph Hearst to ask him to intercede with the late William Jennings Bryan in behalf of the governor's candidacy.

In his statement the mayor, who is almost certain to be named tomorrow to head the ticket of the McAdoo wing of the democratic party, charged Tammany Hall with ingratitude in advocating State Senator James J. Walker for nomination as mayor in the democratic primaries. Mayor Hylan declared he had always been faithful to Tammany.

A last-minute protest against Mayor Hylan's selection was made today by the Municipal Civic League of Brooklyn, claiming to represent 20,000 democrats.

Republican leaders will also meet tomorrow to choose their candidates. Frank B. Waterman, Brooklyn fountain pen manufacturer, is expected to be designated for mayor, heading a fusion ticket which will include two democrats.

'Never Again,' Quoth Prince, As Cinderella Quits Roof

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, August 9.—When Mary Louise Browning, nee Spas, dismounts from her baby blue Cinderella's coach Monday morning, she may, if she wishes, fling a shapely shinbone over the ridgebone of a winged horse named Pegasus and, to the flapping of the hybrid critter's wings, soar to the peaks of distinction as a lady literateur, for Mary, it is now understood, has been placed in the way of a career in belles lettres, even as Laura Jean Libbey, Babe Ruth and the late William Shakespeare.

Discharged, not to say propelled from the luxury of a home with Edward W. Browning, the rich New York land agent, who adopted her to be his "itty, bitty, 16-year-old baby girl," Mary Louise, who is guilty of 21 summers, has options on several other destinations than her old home with her pa and ma in the tenement at Astoria, Long Island.

She may sell the story of her career as Cinderella, during one week, to the journals of the town, at $1 a word rate, more or less. She may adorn the stage as a lady of the ensemble and dine on chicken a la king every night, if she desires. She may even get into the movies. Literature and the drama, both vocal and speechless, are calling Cinderella. The public is craving the shrewd business man who made as the papers say, a million dollars outwitting other business men in the barter and sale of

New York real estate, was not angry, but terribly, terribly hurt because Mary, with her hair let down in girlish curls and with the lip of a little girl of 16 cooing on her tongue, betrayed him into all the unpleasantness of last week, including several official probes or investigations. He told her as much or only slightly less than that Sunday, Mary Louise's last day in fairyland.

"Mary," he said sadly, "you told me you were 16. I have no resentment. We will always be friends. But this must end."

There was no offstage fiddler to fiddle "Hearts and Flowers," but the effect was just as lugubrious. It was very sad. He even said he would never adopt another little girl.

To newspapermen Mr. Browning sadly lamented: "I have been deceived. There is nothing left for me but to have the adoption annulled. I am sorry. I like the girl, but she is too old."

"I fought against those seeking to ruin the girl's happiness. To me she appeared to be but 16. She was very happy with me, but her age defeats the sole purpose for which I adopted her—to be a companion for 3-year-old Dorothy Sunshine. With the great divergence in age, the two girls could find nothing in common."

"I positively am through. I will never adopt another child. The public misinterpreted my motives. I have never been so unhappy."

MACMILLAN SHIPS NEAR DISASTER IN POLAR GALE

Iceberg Torn From Cliff Falls in Bay Narrowly Missing the Moored Planes.

Washington, August 9.—A polar gale, sweeping down suddenly upon Etah, Greenland, almost proved disastrous to the Macmillan arctic expedition, blowing a small iceberg into the harbor which barely missed demolishing the three naval planes moored there.

A message describing the near disaster, garbled in parts, was received by the navy department Sunday, from Commander Byrd, it was dispatched apparently Saturday night.

Byrd said he had ordered the three planes to scour Ellesmere land for their first base, and that they were preparing to take on a month's supplies.

"A southwest gale which commenced last night at 7 o'clock continued until 2 p. m. today when it began to snow and descended. Gale last night blew a small iceberg into the harbor which barely missed demolishing the three planes at 4 a. m."

"Began to clear today at 7 p. m. and plane NA-1 with Byrd and Bennett made reconnaissance flight to Cape Sabine and Cape Isabelle."

"Will take on tonight one month's food, rifles, ammunition, sleeping bags, rubber boat and tent."

The election in 1926 of a democratic congress, the first since 1918, was predicted by Mr. Oldfield, who viewed the interest which voters in doubtful states are showing in politics as a sure sign that party will win.

Commenting on the decision of republican leaders to start early a vigorous campaign to maintain control of congress, he asserted that they "saw and realize that this administration and republican doctrines are becoming more unpopular every day."

An evidence of a "great change in the political sentiment of the country," he asserted there was growing sentiment among farmers against the Fordney-McCumber tariff and aroused dissatisfaction among labor officials over industrial conditions.

DEMOCRATS MAKE PLANS FOR DRIVE THROUGHOUT WEST

Chairman Oldfield Hears Farmers Are Disgusted With Administration To Make Tour.

Washington, August 9.—(AP)—Advised that "the west is ripe for a great democratic movement," Chairman Oldfield of the democratic congressional committee has completed plans to leave August 15 for a tour of Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio.

"Democratic leaders tell me," he said in a statement today, "that the western farmers are disgusted with this administration, with its protective tariff which protects only the rich, with its unfilled promises of agricultural and general prosperity, with its false claims of economy and its flat declaration to the farmers to work out their own salvation. A democratic congress would correct these evils. This is the fact I am going to drive home."

HOPE OF AVERTING COAL CRISIS FADES

Lewis Warns Operators That Negotiations Are Useless Until Opposition Is Abandoned.

Atlantic City, N. J., August 9.—(AP)—Hope that anthracite operators and miners might reconcile their differences in time to avert a suspension of operations September 1 faded tonight.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, informed Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' conference that further negotiations were useless until the operators abandoned their opposition to wage increases and adoption of the check off.

Mr. Lewis' communication was in reply to Mr. Warriner's comment of last Thursday on the original Lewis letter which preceded the breaking up of the scale conference on the previous Tuesday.

LETTER CONFESSES HE SLEW MINSTER AND BURNED BODY

Tip on Missing Chemist's Location Obtained by Police From Apartment Owner in Oakland.

CONFESSION LEFT IN LETTER TO WIFE

Asserts He Killed Invader in Self-Defense, But Evidence Shows He Was Slain Day Before Fire.

Oakland, Cal., August 9.—(AP)—Charles Henry Schwartz, object of a nation-wide search in connection with the mysterious murder in the Pacific Cellulose company plant at Walnut Creek, committed suicide early this morning when trapped in an apartment. He left a note admitting the murder.

Schwartz believed to have killed a laborer and attempted to burn the body in a plot to collect more than $100,000 insurance, shot himself through the head when policemen surrounded the apartment. He had been hiding there since the explosion, July 30, when the body was found.

The note, in which he admitted the murder, was left for his wife, who is the principal beneficiary in the insurance, and who steadfastly maintained that the body found in the plant was that of her husband.

Claimed Self Defense.

In his note, Schwartz said he had killed in self defense a man who came to his laboratory and demanded money. This assertion was upset when the police learned he rented the Oakland apartment and arranged to go into hiding several hours before the explosion.

Regarding his deed, Schwartz wrote his wife:

"Now I wish to tell you, my dear little girl, I do not know the man, never looked how he was dressed, never touched him after that. The only thing I did was I tried to burn him, to wipe out, and go—go, I do not know where."

How Schwartz Was Found.

The end of Schwartz' flight came in a casual way. C. W. Hayward, proprietor of the apartment house where the chemist took refuge, at a dinner party last night mentioned that one of his lodgers had gone into a scuffle and was in hiding. This lodger had rented an apartment on July 30, saying his car had been wrecked and whisky found in it.

Somebody produced a newspaper photograph of Schwartz. The man was smooth shaven, Hayward's lodger wore a moustache. Hayward placed his finger over the mouth in the picture and studied the countenance. Then he rushed for a telephone.

Before daybreak police surrounded the apartment house. They demanded admittance to Schwartz's apartment. There was no response, but as they were battering at the door they heard a shot. They found Schwartz lying on a lounge, a pistol wound in his forehead. He was still breathing, but died on the way to the hospital.

Ticket, $575 in Pocket.

He had in his pocket a ticket to Barstow, in southeastern California, and $575 in currency.

The chemist had not once emerged from the apartment after he entered it the night of July 30, Hayward said. The letter Schwartz left was addressed to his wife and three children.

"I am writing you without making any excuses," he said, "but one thing I will tell you. I am not guilty of the crime they accuse me of. Last Monday or Tuesday a man called at the factory for work. I was in the laboratory. He came straight in. We talked to each other for a while, when suddenly the man told me if I wouldn't give him work, I would have to give him money."

He attacked me. I gave him a blow on the head. He fell. I gave

RUSSIAN-BRITISH WAR IS PREDICTED

Williamstown, Mass., August 9.—(P)—Prediction of an inevitable war between Great Britain and Russia, with Europe endangered by bolshevism unless she alters her policy of "brute force" toward the orient, was made by Felix Valy, of Paris, today in a statement made public by the Institute of Politics. Mr. Valy is one of the Institute's lecturers and is editor of the Revue Politique Internationale.

Tremendous upheaval in the east from Morocco to Mongolia which constitutes one immense movement, directed by the same spirit of nationalism, cannot be treated by the usual methods of European colonial powers. The European races during the war lost their prestige in the east; there is no choice for them to solve by brute force the economic and social problems which confront them.

Islam and Asia were portrayed as demanding a share on equal terms with Europe in the movement of modern ideas. The free evolution of mankind, the statement said, was endangered as a result of Europe's policy of plunder and partition in the nineteenth century and the oriental civilization, which produced Kemal in Turkey and Gandhi in India, was a spiritual one not yet understood by Europe.

Religious and social projects were poisoning the air between the orient and the west.

"The real state of the world is whether the best minds of the orient will cooperate with the best minds of the occident to save civilization, or will help Russian nationalism to destroy Europe," the statement said.

"It is evident that soviet Russia, having offered the principle of social equality to the oriental nations, will profit by the mistakes of the colonial powers. The only means to react efficiently against bolshevism in Asia is to start a new policy of cooperation on the lines of the League of Nations toward China. If the British empire would agree to follow that example with special regard to all Moslem nations, the oriental independence, it might survive the tremendous world crisis which endangers British supremacy in the east."

BOY SCOUTS CLOSE SIX WEEKS' OUTING AT LAKE BURTON

Lakemont, Ga., August 9.—(Special).—This week witnessed the closing of Camp Flamingo, Boy Scout Camp, where 160 scouts were given an outing. The camp site was donated by the Georgia Railway and Power company and was located near the head of Lake Burton.

R. K. Lester, of Athens, scout executive for northeast Georgia, was director of the camp. Three boys, James McCorkle of Athens, Olin Pittman of Commerce, and John Halsey of Gainesville, were initiated as Eagle Scouts.

Good health, not a case of sickness, not an accident and not a fight was reported among the boys during the six weeks' encampment.

GARROLL COUNTY SHIPS 14 CARS EGGS AND CHICKS

Carrollton, Ga., August 9.—The poultry industry shows rapid increase in Carroll county. Reports from three principal shipping points show that during the first five months of the year 6,886 cases, containing 176,580 dozen eggs, or more than 14 cars, were shipped.

In addition, four shipping points that made no report, and a number of trucks hauling poultry and eggs to Atlanta each week, probably accounted for many thousand dozen more.

The county agent, C. B. Ingram, states that two 20,000-egg capacity incubators were operated continuously during the season.

THOMASVILLE CLUB OF ROTARIANS PLAN TO ATTEND MEET

Thomasville, Ga., August 9.—(Special).—The Thomasville Rotary club at the meeting this week decided to accept the invitation from the Quitman and Valdosta clubs to attend the inter-city meetings to be held at Blue Springs, on Thursday evening, August 13. The other clubs to attend will be Albany, Moultrie, Tallahassee, Perry and Quincy, Fla.

It is expected that there will be a very full attendance from the club here, and a very delightful time is anticipated.

SCOTT DIVORCE CASE TO REOPEN TUESDAY

Albany, Mich., August 9.—Further sensational testimony concerning high life in official society at Washington, which is expected Tuesday when the divorce case of Representative Frank D. Scott reopens, has already begun to arouse excitement and curiosity here.

According to word from Detroit, Mrs. Scott has obtained several depositions since the adjournment of court last January which will be offered in attempted substantiation of her allegations concerning Scott while returning from a congressional Panama junket and loss of her possessions to pay his gambling debts.

Scott, in his suit for divorce, sought to show indiscretions of his wife with army officers; parties at the Scott apartment in Washington that lasted until morning hours; entertainment of army officers in an intoxicated condition and extravagance.

Many prominent officials, including army officers and congressmen, were named in connection with gay parties at the capital, and it is understood other names will be added next week.

Among more than a dozen depositions understood to have been obtained by Mrs. Scott is thought to be one to Alexander Galt, brother of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, another from a prominent Los Angeles resident and several from Washington police officers, legislators and residents of the capital.

Scott is said to have obtained but a single deposition.

It is expected the case will be completed by Saturday. Judge Frank Emerick, 70-year-old jurist, will take the decision under consideration.

HANCOCK COUNTY PLANS FOR FAIR

Sparta, Ga., August 9.—(Special).—The county having already been broadcast with catalogs and premium lists for the county agricultural and industrial exhibition in October, officers and employees of the fair association are now giving their attention to the work of perfecting plans and arranging to put over the biggest display since the organization of the Hancock County Fair association six years ago.

Interest in the fair is manifesting itself early this year, and creditable exhibits are expected from all sections of the county.

BARNESVILLE SCHOOL HAS MANY APPLICANTS

Barnesville, Ga., August 9.—(Special).—Colonel L. D. Watson, president of Gordon school, announces that he has applications in hand to fill all the available space in the new dormitory. The dormitory will accommodate 72 boys, in addition to four teachers, who will supervise the students. These accommodations are excellent in every particular, as the dormitory is said to be one of the finest in the country.

Colonel Watson stated that other applications are coming in and arrangements will probably be perfected for quarters for the seniors in a nearby home, which the school authorities will rent for the purpose.

An efficient faculty has been secured for the year, which begins September 10.

PHILADELPHIA RITES IN CAPITAL RITE

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, August 9.—A remnant of the great Ku Klux Klan host which swung down Pennsylvania avenue in a colorful display before the nation's capital, gathered in the darkness of Sunday night across the Potomac river about a flaming cross, and closed their meeting here with initiation of new members.

The crowd, appearing gaunt and spare in the daylight before the torch was applied, stood in the weedy growth of the Arlington horse show grounds here where scores of Klansmen gathered in an annual show. It towered about 50 feet, and was wrapped in burlap saturated in oil.

The torch ceremony followed a pilgrimage to Arlington national cemetery by isolated groups in the morning, when wreaths were laid on the grave of William Jennings Bryan and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and a religious meeting which continued nearly all afternoon.

The night ceremony was weird, the flaming torch lighting the white-robed figures which moved about quietly. Men, women and children were in the gathering, as well as numbers of spectators from the city. None of the national leaders of the Klan was present, however. They left the capital before the final ceremony. So did thousands and thousands of others who had marched Saturday.

Many who had come out as spectators were Klansmen before the night was over. Closing an impassioned address during the afternoon, Rev. A. H. Colquhoun, of Columbus, Ohio, of the Church of Christ, asked all who were not members to stand. About 500 responded, a fourth of the crowd which sat on the grandstand. When he asked those who wished to join to come to the front, 180 stepped out from their places.

The speaker's stand was in the middle of the field, facing the grandstand. Cars were parked all about the muddy field. The Klansmen began to arrive about 1 o'clock, the hour fixed for the service, coming in from all over the country. There was a "holiday spirit" about the occasion. Soft drinks and ice cream stands were set up, and hot dogs were sold. Vendors of toy balloons and Klan insignia were on hand, and several ex-service men as well as Klansmen sold pamphlets of one kind and another. The service delayed over an hour, and robed Klansmen wandered about over the field or through the grandstands. Many of them carried their robes in bags.

There was a sprinkle of rain early in the afternoon but it cleared off later.

Gullidge, in his long speech, denounced the enemies of the Klan.

When he had concluded the crowd called for more, and he continued awhile longer.

Referring to a report of the parade Saturday, he said that "when a dirty lying sheet sends out a report as it did that not a woman's face could be seen in the crowd of marchers which bore any intelligence or comeliness, it is time for us to do something."

Dr. Luke E. Rader Hits Modernists In Sunday Sermon

Asserting that the modernist theories place the Savior of man in the light of a "contemptible pretender," Dr. Luke E. Rader, pastor of Central Baptist church, Sunday night preached a sensational sermon in answer to fundamentalism.

Dr. Rader insisted that true Christians are compelled to subscribe to all tenets of the faith, such as the "Fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, the immutability of Christ, the immaculate conception, the atonement, the transfiguration and other miraculous features of the gospel. He said there is no room for doubt of any kind, and that those who do not believe wholly in the word of God are not true Christians.

The minister called attention to the large gathering present, and said that in view of the fact that many churches are practically closed on account of vacationists being out of the city, the best and other reasons, the large attendance at Central Baptist church was a splendid tribute to the popularity of the gospel.

Preceding the sermon Mrs. Rader sang a beautiful solo which made a deep impression upon the audience.

ment, also is expected to cross-examine W. T. Anderson, of Macon, a former member of the board of directors of the Georgia Railway and Power company. Chief Engineer W. R. Noel, who already have given their direct testimony.

While the legislature is facing a jam of unfinished business as the final two weeks of the session begins, it is not considered likely that there will be any extra session. No proposal for night sessions has been made yet and they are not considered probable for this week, but both houses undoubtedly will hold morning and afternoon sessions every day during next week.

When adjournment comes on the night of August 22, it will be all regular sessions of the legislature until June, 1927, this being the first term under the new biennial system, passed in 1924 and ratified by the people at the general election of last fall.

the services which are to be held in the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

The following will act as pallbearers: W. Woods White, Colonel J. C. Woodward, Major W. H. Hooper, Alexander Thomas Crenshaw, Dr. W. G. Elkins, J. C. Goodrum, Arnold Broyles, Harry L. Schlesinger, James B. Nevin and I. C. McCrory.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Graves is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frederick Tompkins, of New York, and Miss Annie Graves, and three sons, John Temple Graves, Jr., and James de Graffenried Graves, of Palm Beach, Fla., and Calhoun Graves, of Greenville, S. C.

Mr. Graves had been ill for several weeks of a complication of diseases, the most serious of which was hardening of the arteries. His condition a few days ago became suddenly worse and members of the family were summoned and were at the bedside when death came.

Mr. Graves was born at Willington Church, Abbeville county, S. C., his father being James Porterfield Graves and his maternal grandfather William Calhoun, eldest brother of John C. Calhoun. He was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1875.

He was well known in Atlanta, where he served as editor of the old News and of The Atlanta Georgian.

Tammany's Entry for Mayor Has Not Read Dozen Books

New York, August 9.—State Senator James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for mayor of New York, already has lost the vote of the book publishers and perhaps the younger intellectuals as well, and the campaign is only a day old.

Reporters descended on Walker to learn what he read.

"I never read," replied Walker. "Now the least a politician can do under such circumstances is to say he 'thinks literature is a very good thing.' But, Walker didn't say even that."

"I don't suppose I have read 12 books from cover to cover in my life," he admitted. "I'm terribly sorry, and I don't know why it is. What I know I have learned from contact with other people. I wish I could read books."

The worst of this literary heresy is that Walker was born in Greenwich Village and still lives there, right where hundreds of young intellectuals are trying to write books, and where one or perhaps two actually have been written.

COTTON EXPECTED TO REVIVE TRADE IN GRIFFIN STORES

Griffin, Ga., August 9.—(Special). Griffin's first bale of new cotton was received Friday, marking the opening of the cotton season in Griffin.

A. P. Dickinson, a progressive farmer residing at Williamson, in Pike county, was the "first bale man."

The new bale weighed 490 pounds. It was bought by the Griffin Mercantile company for 27.6 cents a pound. The bale brought $135.25, which is a fancy price.

The first bale this year is over three weeks earlier than last year. The opening of the cotton season is expected to revive business in all lines. Cotton will soon begin coming in rapidly and the business men are looking forward to great activity in all lines of trade.

BUYS TWO FARMS WITH MONEY MADE IN FLORIDA WORK

Forsyth, Ga., August 9.—(Special). That the "Florida boom" is helping Georgia in more ways than one, was illustrated here by R. B. Stephens, local farmer and realtor, who tells of two members of a negro family buying two farms from him recently, paying cash with money made in Florida.

"When the negroes inquired of me," says Mr. Stephens, "for a farm, I thought they wanted to rent, but it developed that they desired to buy, and bought two farms from me. It developed that the negroes moved from Monroe county and had made big money, as they expressed it, working in Florida, but desired to invest it in Georgia."

Mr. Stephens predicts that Georgia will benefit in many ways from the boom in the neighbor state.

been doubled over that of last year, it was announced.

President Marquardt told the members of the committee that the response from labor organizations and from all old groups which already had been called upon to cooperate was better and more cordial than ever before during his more than 20 years' connection with the labor movement in Atlanta and Georgia.

G. F. Haney who, with James L. Mayson, chairman of the finance committee, was largely instrumental in the actual raising of funds for the celebration stated that the attitude of business men generally whom he had approached was more cordial than in any previous year and that the city as a whole seemed in the mood to make Labor day an unusual and outstanding event which would attract wide attention to Atlanta.

Coming as it does just at the opening of the fall business season, would make an important contribution to the prosperity of the city.

Letter to Clubs.
The letter which is to be dispatched Monday by Mr. Marquardt to presidents of civic organizations is as follows:

The Labor Day committee of the Atlanta Federation of Trades at its meeting July 26 adopted a resolution inviting other civic organizations to cooperate in making this Labor day, September 8, a great civic festival at which a real shoulder to shoulder forward movement with all civic interests cooperating can be launched for Atlanta.

Since then, our finance committee has raised sufficient funds to insure a more elaborate program of entertainment than last year, and on Sunday, August 9, the general committee adopted a second resolution authorizing the creation of a day advisory committee and authorizing me, as chairman, to request that the organization of which you are president, among other leading civic groups, designate three of its members as members of this joint advisory committee. These members would constitute a liaison between the labor group, your group and other cooperating groups. They would by their advice and counsel help to develop the activities of the day along really broad civic lines.

We would appreciate your action on this as soon as possible, because the time until Labor day is brief and a conference of the advisory committee should be called at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Lewis, in his letter to Mr. Warner, said in part:

"Your Atlantic City conferees informed the mine workers' representatives that they would reject any demand that would disturb the factor of mine costs. In addition, they rejected the request for the full recognition of the union. Your letter confirms the position of your committee. Be it so. We do not have any further inclination to argue. I will be glad to hear from you when you abandon this position."

"We do not care to arbitrate. Thanks for the offer. It will be long before we recover completely from your previous arbitration treatment and until we do, we will modestly decline to accept your prescription."

without even saying goodbye, or taking the 50 dresses that he had bought for her. After she had departed Mr. Browning said that her adoption had cost him $20,000, but that it was "heart rending" to him to see her go.

Mary will be invited to go back to the $55,000 tenement which represents all the earthly treasure of her poor old pa and ma, but being, as hitherto remarked, a young woman of 21, she needn't go home if she doesn't want to. That's up to nobody else but Mary Louise.

She may be allowed to take along the trousseau, a full inventory and partial invoice to which were released to the press when Mary was Cinderella. Browning's generous old Daddykins that he is, was intimated that she may have everything he bought for her. Everything, that is, except Cinderella's coach, which, it now appears, was just a hired car and not the property of the Fairy Prince at all.

Judge Fred P. Branson, Native Georgian, Given High Honor at Chicago

Washington, Ga., August 9.—(Special).—Friends in Georgia of Fred P. Branson, a former Georgian, who is now serving his third term on the supreme court bench of Oklahoma, will be interested to learn of another distinct honor which has been accorded him.

In recognition of his outstanding ability and knowledge of the law, he is this summer serving on the faculty of law of Northwestern university, Chicago, giving a series of five lectures each week for nine weeks on "Equity Jurisdiction."

Judge Branson is a native of Barlow county, was raised on a farm in Floyd county and received his education in Georgia, first at Piedmont college, a Rockmart, then at Emory college and graduated from the Mercer Law school in 1905. He is a brother of Mrs. N. M. Adams, of Cartersville, and Rev. T. J. Branson, pastor of the First Methodist church of Washington, G.

him another. I never thought for a moment to let it go, but I could not make up my mind to go to Bell (evidently E. S. Bell, his attorney) and tell him. I decided to run away, but made a dirty job of it. I put the man in the closet, got ready. Can you imagine how I felt all the time, feeling I had to lose you and the dear boys? Oh, God, how I suffered!

"If I had not this damned suit of Mrs. Ad (Elizabeth Adams, of Oakland, who had sued him for breach of promise), I would have gone through with that, but it was impossible. I did not plan before this happened. No, I was glad to go on and so nicely with my work and to have you and the boys with me, and then the end came of this beautiful dream."

Mrs. Schwartz collapsed when notified of her husband's suicide. She was under medical attention tonight.

Was Native of Germany.
Schwartz, a native of Germany, was general manager of the chemical company at Walnut Creek, near Martinez, north of here. His home was near his laboratory.

On the night of July 30 he had been working in the laboratory and telephoned his wife that he would be home soon. Twenty minutes later an explosion occurred. Persons living nearby rushed in and found a body they took to be that of the chemist. It was badly burned, the features charred beyond recognition. The authorities found that blows on the head had been struck before death. Experts learned that acid had been applied to the face.

The fingers had been cut off, apparently to prevent identification by fingerprint prints.

A tooth corresponding to one missing in Schwartz's mouth had been chiseled from the corpse.

Partial identification of the partly-charred body found in the plant and taken to San Francisco shortly after he was made as that of Gilbert Warren Barbe, self-styled itinerant evangelist and war veteran.

Cecil Barker, Placerville, Cal., undertaker, was one of three who said the body was Barbe's. Information from Jersey Shore, Pa., indicated that John Barbe, there, is the father of Gilbert Warren Barbe, who became estranged from the family 15 years ago. Army records show Gilbert Barbe enlisted and spent some time at Fort McDowell shortly after the United States entered the world war.

Wife Believed Him Dead.
Until the last Mrs. Schwartz, wife of the chemist, who specialized in amateur criminology, said: "At the proper time" she would produce "undisputed evidence in the form of physical peculiarities which would definitely establish the identity of the charred body" as that of her husband.

Searches by Mrs. Schwartz, however, authorities were not satisfied with his wife's identification of the body found in the partly-burned chemical plant. He was hunting in the water when it was found he had left a note to his wife advising her to go to England in the event of his death.

Stowaways and passengers were examined on several steamers which left about the time of the explosion.

Schwartz's old country name was said to be Leon Henry Schwartzhoff.

RICHMOND POLICEMAN IS KILLED BY NEGRO

Richmond, Va., August 9.—(P)—Detective Sergeant Louis Bertucci was shot to death here tonight when he answered an emergency call in the negro district. Polly Francis, negro, and Ruth Glen, negress, were mortally wounded.

Detectives said they have established that Francis, after shooting the woman, shot and killed the detective as he drove up in an automobile in response to a call to police headquarters.

Bertucci was the second detective agent to be slain here in less than two weeks. J. Harvey Burke falling a victim to the bullets of Rudolph Disse on July 28, when the latter killed Burke, Mrs. Vivian Tomlin Peers, his sweetheart, and W. G. Carter, his rival.

KANSAS CITY DOCTOR INVENTS NEW TRUSS

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without An Operation.
A new discovery which experts agree has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrews, 1228 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard padding, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no cruel steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Constitution who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to rid your rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today. FLORIDA SHERIFF GETS TWO MEN AT MACON

Macon, Ga., August 9.—Sheriff Lewis, of Marianna, Fla., left here this afternoon with Ted Witman, 22, of Macon, and J. L. McNally, alias McCull, 25, said to be wanted for robbing the bank at Malone, Fla., last June.

The men were arrested here after money orders said to have been stolen from the bank had been cashed. McNally is said to have been an escaped convict from Florida.

FARMERS OF TWIGGS TO PLANT MUCH VETCH

Jeffersonville, Ga., August 9.—(Special).—Twiggs county farmers will plant a large acreage in vetch and rye during the early fall. At the monthly meeting here of the Twiggs County association, Professor Johnson, the vocational teacher, will endeavor to get the farmers of the county interested in this most valuable soil builder and a number of orders for vetch are already in hand.

WARM SPRINGS MAN 104 YEARS OF AGE RETAINS FACULTIES

Warm Springs, Ga., August 9.—(Special).—"Uncle Billy" Collins, old resident of Meriwether county, is now living near Warm Springs, and, although blind and four years past the century mark, is still in possession of his mental faculties and his hearing is practically unimpaired.

"Uncle Billy" is an interesting talker and his humorous and vivid recollections of civil war days are indeed thrilling. It was he who carried the lat Judge W. T. Newman from the field of battle when the latter received the wound that resulted in the loss of one of his arms.

Because of the eminence attained by the late federal jurist, "Uncle Billy" relates this incident with a great deal of enthusiasm.

Here's Proof That Blue Streak Is Richer, Snappier ---More Mileage Gas!

The carburetor is the old watch-dog of the gas supply. It stands guard and lets out the gas as it is needed. Now, when you fill your tank with Blue Streak you'll find that it is possible to adjust the carburetor and decrease the flow of gas. You can do it because Blue Streak has a far greater wallop than ordinary gas and it doesn't take as much of it to give your motor all the power you can use. Of course when you cut down your gas feed you've saved fuel and when you've saved fuel you've saved money. You've eliminated the carbon bug-a-boo, too.

Bryan Well Earned His Title Of Commoner, Raulston Says In Chicago Memorial Address

Dayton Judge Requests That Living Monument Be Erected by People to His Memory.

Chicago, August 9.—(AP)—Speaking at a Bryan memorial service at the North Bryn Mawr Congregational church here this afternoon, Judge John T. Raulston, who presided at the Scopes trial, paid tribute to one of the leading figures in the "evolution case."

"Coming from the south as I do, and knowing of my impulsive nature, I fear that some of you might misjudge my enthusiasm for political prejudice," said the Tennesseean. "Therefore, I think it proper that you know in the beginning that I do not belong to the same political party as the man did in whose memory I speak."

"I had never known Mr. Bryan until I met him at Dayton, and what I shall say of him will be based largely upon my observations of him during the Scopes trial. And since he and the trial are inseparable in my mind, I shall be compelled to speak of the one in order to speak of the other."

Engaged in Greatest Work.

"I believe that it is generally thought by Christian people that at the time of his death Mr. Bryan was engaged in the greatest work of his life."

"I did not know the 'great commoner' before meeting him in the courtroom at Dayton, but it required no extensive observation of Mr. Bryan to justify the conclusion that he was eminently fitted for the title 'commoner.' Not that there was a characteristic in his nature common in a vulgar sense, not that he was inferior or low in birth or origin, or that his talent, his habits, his learning, culture or character were mean and wanting in dignity, but he was the true commoner because, notwithstanding his towering intellect, his magnetism, his eloquent speech, his gentle manner, his unusual culture and his superb character, notwithstanding all these great endowments, he was simple in manner, magnanimous at heart, sympathetic by nature and loyal and true to the humble and needy, and instead of forgetting God, as many do who are thus endowed, he revered and honored His holy name."

Calm and Serene at All Times in the Scopes Case.

"There was much effort on the part of the defendant's counsel to make Mr. Bryan the real issue. Many gibes, taunts and sneers were thrust at him without unfriendly retorts. He was calm and serene at all times, and when at one time a technical objection was made by one of his associates, the question objected to involving Mr. Bryan, he arose in a most gracious manner and explained to the court that he was asking no protection from the court, but that when his time came to speak, he would take care of himself."

"Mr. Bryan's very presence inspired confidence and admiration. He believed in doing things for the benefit of others. While in Dayton, busy with the trial, he was planning the building of a great school for the benefit of the mountain boys and girls of that country."

Denies God's Power Limited.

The address closed with a denial that God's creative power was limited, the speaker declaring that like Mr. Bryan he believed in the unlimited and universal power of God.

"Mr. Bryan believed in Christian education," Judge Raulston concluded, "and at the time of his death was planning the building of a great school, and I am now pleading with you to erect a living monument to his memory. Let us not build this monument of inanimate things, but let us build a school where boys and girls may be trained and educated and converted into outstanding exponents of human integrity. Let us build a school that will send out boys and girls to teach the true philosophy of life, a philosophy that recognizes the God of Heaven as the creator of the earth, the creator of the universe and the creator of man in his own image, and the author of truth, virtue, justice and immortality."

Chicagoans Plan Publicity Drive To Oust Criminal

Chicago, August 9.—"One little slip means Joliet!"

This cheering message will meet the eyes of Chicago's criminals when they hop a bus to attend a murder or take an elevated to reach the bank they plan to hold up, provided a group of Chicago business men carry out their announced intention of launching a monster publicity campaign against murder and banditry here.

Alarmed by reports that crime conditions in Chicago are creating an impression in other cities that there is something uncouth about the Chicago make up, the business men are rallying to the defense of the city's fair name.

Newspaper advertising and posters will be used in the publicity battle, according to Clarence E. Estes, sponsor of the scheme. There will be a placard in every public conveyance here, it is said, and placards will be designed to cheer the citizen by telling him how safe Chicago is, and to discourage the bandit by telling him of the excellent shooting record of the local police.

"Seven thousand police are sworn to get you dead or alive," is the cordial warning one poster will carry. Another shows a man being led to the gallows by a jailer and a priest. The gunman, hurrying to the scene of his next crime, will see it and pause for thought, the business men feel. The title of the poster is "You Can't Win."

Another, designed for reading by the innocent bystanders, announces "Chicago is the safest city in the world."

CAPTAIN C. A. LYERLY DIES AT CHATTANOOGA

Chattanooga, Tenn., August 9.—(AP) Captain Charles A. Lyerly, 87, president of the First National bank and widely known in financial circles of the country, died here today after an illness of two years.

Captain Lyerly was a native of Mississippi but came to Chattanooga in 1887 and became a leading figure in banking circles. Besides his banking interests Captain Lyerly devoted much time to agriculture and was the owner of one of the largest peach orchards in north Georgia.

SIX THEFTS REPORTED TO DETECTIVES SUNDAY

Atlanta's burglary wave continued unabated Saturday night and Sunday, six thefts being reported to police.

The home of Miss M. McCallister, of 812 North Forsyth street, was entered and a quantity of clothing taken. Several pairs of shoes were stolen from the shoe shop of H. W. Berry, 22 Jonesboro road. No one was found by detectives who investigated.

Two gas meters on the rear porch of the residence of Mrs. T. E. Dearwent, 318 South Pryor street, were robbed.

T. V. Hardaway, of 355 Peachtree street, lost a gold watch and $13 in cash.

A gold watch was stolen from A. E. Wallace, of 251 Central avenue.

Rev. E. R. Carter Returns.

After an absence of nearly three months, Rev. E. R. Carter, pastor of Friendship Baptist church, will arrive today from England. The congregation is actively engaged in an effort to raise $3,000 to repair the church. Tonight the young people of the congregation will present a dramatic production of the story of "Ruth the Moabitess," in four acts, at Morehouse college.

Rev. B. R. Holmes Preaches.

Rev. B. R. Holmes, president of Holmes institute, spoke Sunday morning in Reed Street Baptist church. He said that what the world needs most is the love of God in the hearts and lives of individuals, races and nations which will give them the light to do unto others as they would have others do unto them.

Rev. P. P. Johnson, pastor, spoke of the evil influences which keep people from joining the church.

Mrs. Johnson Is Hostess.

A party of the midweek was given by Mrs. Leonard Johnson at her home on North Boulevard. Those entertained were Mrs. R. M. Boldridge, Mrs. Paul Garcia, Mrs. L. F. Johnson, Mrs. O. G. Layton, Mrs. Paul Urban, Mrs. W. T. Walker, Mrs. Chas. H. Watson and Miss R. E. Williams. The high score prize was won by Mrs. Paul Urban, the consolation by Mrs. O. Y. Layton.

BEAUTY CHATS BY EDNA K. FORBES.

WHITE ARMS.

Whatever the general complexion, the arms should be as white as possible. Of course, the very fair-skinned woman will have arms and hands of a pearly whiteness that the brunette cannot hope for. But even the brunette wants throat and shoulders, arms and hands as fair as is possible.

There are several ways to bleach the skin. One old-fashioned way that I can highly recommend is to coat the arms thickly with starch paste, which is nothing but laundry starch melted with enough cold water to form a thick paste. This dries into the skin and bleaches and cleans, too, particularly if the paste is rubbed well into the arms while it is being put on. It is very good for freckles, too, for the light summer type of freckles, at least. And it is good for light coats of sunburn.

One disadvantage that many arms have is called gooseflesh. This is a distant cousin of pimples and blackheads but, fortunately, much easier to cure. To make the skin properly smooth and fine grained when it is coarsened by goose flesh, simply scrub the arms daily with hot water and some very good soap, such as castile, and a very stiff complexion brush. Rinse with hot and cold water. The friction of the brush and the heat of the water opens and cleanses the pores of the impurities that make these hard little protruding heads.

Another way to bleach the arms and to keep the skin fine is to rub them with powdered oatmeal after they have been washed and rinsed. They should be rubbed with oatmeal until they are dried as the coarse oatmeal powder dries them and makes the skin beautifully soft and smooth.

B. E. T.—It may be possible that you upset your liver from drinking so much coffee as that would make you feel droopy at times. Try to drink one cup less each day until you bring it down to two cups, or better still, one cup, and that should be at breakfast. You are underweight at 105 at 17 years of age, as you are only in the developing period, and pounds more or less do not matter much. It is your state of health that really counts at this time. It would build up your weight if you formed the habit of taking milk in place of the coffee.

DR. DEMPSEY PAYS TRIBUTE TO CANDLER

In the fifth of his series of sermons under the general caption of "Education That Educates," Dr. Elam F. Dempsey preached Sunday morning to the congregation of Emory university church on the special theme, "The Teacher."

In the course of his sermon Dr. Dempsey took occasion to pay tribute to Asa G. Candler, Sr., for the gift of $1,000,000 donated ten years ago for the founding of Emory. The gift placed the Candler name alongside those of Lady Pembroke and Thomas Sutton, of England, and Yale and Rockefeller, in the United States, as a distinguished patron of learning, he said.

Dr. Dempsey emphasized the importance of a well-chosen faculty in schools and colleges, declaring that the type of teacher determines the success or failure of the school.

The sixth in his series of special sermons will be delivered next Sunday at Patillo Memorial church. He will fill other pulpits from Sunday to Sunday in the following order: Park Street, Inman Park, Stewart Avenue, Grace, Druid Hills, Epworth, First Methodist and Peachtree Road, it was announced.

DAHLONEGA COLLEGE PREPARES FOR TERM

Dahlonega, Ga., August 9.—(Special)—The women's board of the North Georgia Agricultural college has been organized here with about 35 Dahlonega women as members. Mrs. H. Head is president and Mrs. J. W. West is secretary-treasurer.

The board announces that its object is to take active part in the social and religious welfare of the student life at the college.

President West says he is receiving a great number of requests for catalogs and that quite a number of reservations have been made for the fall term.

It is announced that the military feature of the college will be stressed and that members of the faculty and students will wear uniforms.

Queer Life

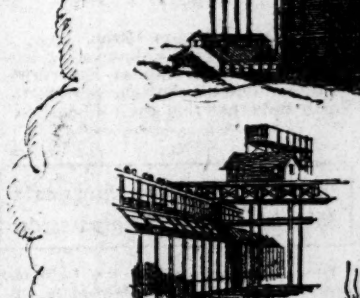

Victim of the Boomerang.

Cockatoos do considerable damage to the fields in Australia and for that reason are hunted almost incessantly by the natives. The hunters use the boomerang, a peculiarly shaped weapon which can be thrown 100 feet and will fly in many small circles, with many windings, from the direct track. The birds are terrified by the aimless wanderings of this weapon and many of them are struck down by it. The cockatoos live long in captivity and can be taught to speak fairly well.

Ten Cent Beer, 50 Cent Whisky, Is His Platform

New York, August 9.—Ten-cent beer and 50-cent whisky are principal issues in the platform of Sammy Mitchell, candidate for alderman in the New York city council.

Sammy will seek the Tammany nomination for the Washington Heights district, backed by the live-wire democratic club of the region, and if Tammany doesn't nominate him he will run independently.

"If I am elected alderman I will immediately call on the police commissioner to close every saloon and speak-easy in town which charges more than 10 cents for a glass of beer or more than 50 cents for whisky," Sammy said in his opening speech of the campaign. "I will also ask for a law making it a felony to put ether in the beer." Sammy added, indicating that good beer is available to the bootlegger nowadays if he will only take the trouble to get it.

"This profiteering in beer and whisky must be stopped," the candidate said. "The only way to stop it is to have the aldermen get after the profiteering places."

BADEN COURT HOLDS DUELING IS LAWFUL

London, August 9.—Student "face slapping" duels are legal in Baden despite the Reichstag law against duelling according to a Baden court decision, says a dispatch from Berlin to the Daily Express.

The late President Ebert explicitly warned German universities to prevent duelling, and the law was passed to bolster his remarks.

Dr. Huber Mensur, surgeon at Heidelberg university for 30 years, testified before the Baden court that he had sewn up more than 30,000 sword-slashed cheeks and noses during his service among the students, and that there had not been a single fatality.

FORD TAKES CHARGE OF PURCHASED SHIPS

Norfolk, Va., August 9.—(AP)—According to reports in local shipping circles, Henry Ford already has taken charge of 100 steamers now with the idle fleet in James river, Fort Eustis, and which are a part of the 200 vessels authorized sold to the automobile manufacturer by the shipping board. A corps of 25 surveyors, mechanics and other workmen were said to have left here yesterday and today to take charge of the vessels, make surveys of their conditions and stand by until the ships are taken away to be scrapped or conditioned under the terms of the sales agreement.

No one here had any information as to where the ships would be taken to be scrapped, but it was thought some of them might be brought to Norfolk. Recent sale of seven ship-ping board tugs to Mr. Ford has led to the belief that some of the ships if not all may be towed to some other place for dismantling or others elsewhere brought to Norfolk or Newport News. If brought here, it was thought the local Ford assembly plant might be the base of operations in the scrapping process.

President West says he is receiving a great number of requests for catalogs and that quite a number of reservations have been made for the fall term.

It is announced that the military feature of the college will be stressed and that members of the faculty and students will wear uniforms.

TAMPA KIDNAPING BRINGS ON PROBE

Tampa, Fla., August 9.—The band of kidnapers alleged to have robbed eight Portuguese and held them captive in Tampa for 12 days before releasing them, are believed to be operating throughout the state, fleeing foreigners and strangers.

A statewide investigation of abduction and confidence activities has been started by Tampa police. Descriptions of the alleged kidnapers have been sent to the principal cities of Florida.

Given food and a rest after their experience, the Portuguese who came from Taunton, Mass., to invest their savings, talked freely tonight, giving detectives valuable information. Although weak and exhausted from the long confinement in a little one-room house in Ybor City, a Spanish settlement of Tampa, they will suffer no ill effects, physicians said. The month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Santos is ill from insufficient nourishment, but will recover.

An alleged confidence man, whose name was given as Thomas, posed as a real estate agent to lure the Portuguese families into the hands of reputed "bonanza" accounts to police. After they had been taken to the rendezvous, the gang robbed them of about $1,300 and demanded more ransom, the victims claimed. A telegram was sent to relatives in Massachusetts for more money and an order for $700 was asked by police to have been intercepted.

More money was asked but when it was slow in arriving, the band apparently became suspicious of secret service operatives and fled, it is claimed, leaving the house locked. The Portuguese broke down a door to obtain liberty.

They were given hospitality at a Spanish home until they communicated with police. A secret service woman from Taunton, sent here to assist in the investigation, is with the families tonight at a local hotel.

Pittsburgh Plans $14,000,000 Medical Center

Pittsburgh, August 9.—Plans to erect a $14,000,000 medical center at the University of Pittsburgh, to rank with the foremost in the world were announced today by the university's medical committee.

Agreements have been perfected, it was stated, to include the Presbyterian, Children's, Elizabeth Steele Magee, Montifore, and the Eye and Ear hospitals in a group to be opened in conjunction with the university's fifty-two-story cathedral of learning. In connection with this centralized group the school expects to conduct a $2,000,000 medical unit.

The plan will be financed by the respective hospitals joining the unit, most of which plans under way for new buildings.

The five institutions will have a capacity of 1,350 beds, said to surpass the capacity of any present group.

COOLIDGE CONFERS WITH DIRECTOR OF BUDGET TODAY

Swampscott, Mass., August 9.—(AP) Secretary Hoover returned tonight to Washington after week-end conferences with President Coolidge on the anthracite situation, commercial aviation, and other problems facing the administration.

The visit here of the commerce department head developed that the president expected the anthracite operation of which he was working out a solution of their wage controversy without governmental intervention and that he has no intention of taking a hard line.

President Coolidge will confer here tomorrow with Director Lord of the budget bureau on routine matters and before the end of the week is expected to have as his guest at White Court Postmaster General New and possibly other governmental officials with whom he desires to confer.

It is the president's intention to leave late in the week for Plymouth, Vt., where he will spend several days with his aged father, Colonel John Coolidge. He expects to return here after the Vermont trip, to remain, from present indications, until after Labor day before returning to Washington.

ILLINOIS TOWNS SHIP IN WATER TO FIGHT DROUGHT

Metropolis, Ill., August 9.—To relieve the drought in Centralia, Herin and Zeigler, 22 carloads of water are being shipped daily from here to the towns.

Metropolis is the closest point at which water can be obtained in large quantities. The water is pumped to the cars from the Ohio river, the pump of a river boat being used to force the water up an incline into the cars.

London, August 9.—Successful generals in future wars will work like painless dentists, according to Major General Sir Ernest Swinton, inventor of the tanks, who is about to become professor of military history at Oxford.

Instead of killing the "patients," Sir Ernest declared in an interview, the generals will temporarily disable them.

DATE FOR PRIMARY TO BE SET IN MACON

Macon, Ga., August 9.—(Special.) The city democratic executive committee at its meeting Monday morning will fix the date for the primary, select a secretary and name a sub-committee to take charge of the primary.

It was indicated today that the committee will fix September 16 as the date of the primary, this being the date fixed by law for the holding of an election for water commissioner.

ROME PREPARES FOR LEGION MEET

Constitution Bureau.
Rome, Ga., August 9.—(Special.)—Addresses by Judge Kennesaw Landis and other figures, national and state, are features of the program arranged here for the convention of the American Legion Georgia department, on August 19-21. The American Legion auxiliary will also meet at that time.

Shackles-Attaway post of Rome will be host to the convention. The opening will be preceded by an executive committee meeting of the state officers to be held on the night of August 18. Reports for the year's work will be given at this meeting. Convention headquarters will be established at the General Forrest hotel, where delegates are expected to register.

The opening session will be a joint meeting of the legion and auxiliary at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, August 19. The convention will be called to order by the state commander, J. C. Fitzpatrick of Savannah. The forenoon session will be taken up largely by routine departmental matters, reports of committees, etc. Judge John S. Candler of Atlanta, will address the convention on the opening forenoon and the afternoon will be given over to a luncheon at noon, with an automobile ride in the afternoon, and entertainment features that night.

The address of Judge Kennesaw Landis will feature Thursday morning session. In the afternoon memorial service will be held at the grave of the Unknown Soldier in Myrtle Hill cemetery. Basil Stockbridge of Atlanta will be master of ceremonies, with Judge Landis delivering the memorial address.

On the concluding day, Friday, Governor Nathan will preside over the convention. Awarding of prizes, committee reports and election of officers will also be a part of the closing day's program.

Rome is looking forward with a great deal of anticipation to the convention and a royal welcome is promised to the returned soldiers. All civic bodies are cooperating in entertainment plans for the meet.

AMUSEMENTS
Argentine Orchestra.
(On Low's Bill.)

The sensational Parisian dancing novelty of Andree and Del Val will be the headline attraction on the new bill which opens at Low's Grand theater today. All the latest Argentine dances are offered and a special musical program is furnished by the Argentine orchestra of six pieces. Other acts on the bill are Lee Alton and Cecil Alton, "Home Value," and "The Man Without a Conscience," while a special added attraction is "Thirty Years Ago," a picture showing the first development of the motion picture drama.

Comedy Juggler Heads.
(At Keith's Forsyth.)
A company of comedy jugglers, headed by the master juggler of vaudeville, Jean Bedini, is appearing at Keith's Forsyth, theater in "A Juggling Traviesty," as the headlining attraction on a bill of five big time acts.

Also the bill presents a special added attraction the act of Billy Batchelor in a musical revue entitled "Don't Forget Your Parcel." Lee Stafford and Mlle. Louise, musical comedy stars, offer a dance fantasy and Gene Morgan the "Boy From Rio," does some black and white work. Corsica and Verdi complete the bill.

Five Big Features.
(At the Howard.)
Produced on an elaborate scale with a cast of recognized stars, "Night Life of New York," opens at the Howard theater Monday presenting one of the most colorful and entertaining metropolitan stories ever to reach the screen.

Rod LaRocque, Dorothy Gish, Ernest Torrence and a number of other well-known stars make up the cast. An elaborate prologue is being offered by the new Howard Stock company, organized this week, which includes a ballet of pretty girls, Miss Olive Hill, danseuse; Miss Virginia Futrelle, soprano, and Byron Warner with his new Howard orchestra.

"Butterfly."
(At the Rialto.)
The motion picture version of Kathleen Norris' famous novel "Butterfly," is the feature of the program which today opens the second week of Great Movie season at the Rialto theater. Other numbers are a comedy entitled "Going Great," News Reel and a musical program.

Laura LaPlante, Ruth Clifford, Kenneth Harlan, Norman Kerry, Roy Barnes and Margaret Livingston are among the principal actors in "Butterfly."

THOMASVILLE OPENS HATCHERY TUESDAY

Thomasville, Ga., August 9.—(Special.)—The Thomasville hatchery will be open for fall hatching on Tuesday, August 11. Indications point to a large output of fine broilers and fryers for the coming season and many dealers are preparing to take advantage of the opening of the hatchery.

The big Buckeye incubator is capable of turning out 15,000 young chickens and it is practically taken the place of the old-time barnyard hen for hatching purposes.

STATE JUNIOR ORDER TO MEET IN GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., August 9.—(Special.) The annual state convention of the Junior Order United American Mechanics with its affiliated order, the Daughters of America, will convene here Tuesday morning. Daily sessions will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at the athletic court. Delegates will begin to arrive Monday morning. About 450 are expected.

12,000 People See Parachute Jump at Park

Twelve thousand Atlantans Sunday afternoon witnessed the spectacular parachute jump of J. T. Eakes, Jr., youthful son of Rev. J. T. Eakes, from the wing of an airplane flying at a height of 2,000 feet over Lake-wood park.

Young Eakes had planned to land in the lake, but a capricious wind carried him some 50 feet from his mark, dropping him to the ground in front of the grandstand. He fulfilled his promise, however, by diving immediately into the lake from the top rail of the Lakewood dock.

The leap was replete with thrills and the host of spectators greeted his performance with roars of applause. After cutting loose from the plane's wing the chute dropped nearly 300 feet before the great umbrella opened and the fall was checked.

Swinging gently in the wind, the parachute floated gracefully to the ground with its human burden. In landing, young Eakes grazed the side of a sedan which was parked in the field, but escaped injury.

Beeler Blevins, well-known commercial aviator of Candler field, piloted the airplane from which Eakes made his leap.

It was the youthful adventurer's second jump. About two months ago he leaped from the same plane, on his second flight in a man-made bird. "And this won't be my last either," he declared enthusiastically. "There's a kick in the jump that you don't find in anything else."

INTERESTING BITS Sifted From NEWS OF THE DAY

Brooklyn—Some things are too good to last. When taxi drivers speeded a car against an injunction against operation by the Tompkins Bus corporation on State Island, the bus company ran its buses free between New Dorp and Coney Island, New York.

Cropley has held this to be contempt of court, sentencing the company's vice president to ten days in jail and fining the concern $250.

Ancona, Italy—Presto Prioretto declared he was tired of life at 93, drank a glass of poison and lay down, a dagger and stab himself how he was pulled out alive by a coast guard and may recover.

Boston—A policeman charged with accepting bribes from bootleggers is alleged to have swallowed half an $85 bill to destroy the evidence. He couldn't swallow fast enough, however, and officers who arrested him say the salvaged half bore a recorded number.

Coney Island—We ought soon to have a fairly definite answer on the question of a red-headed gaily colored "Luna Park" announced a bathing beauty contest there in which only red-headed girls may enter. Three red-headed Broadway stage beauties will act as judges.

Boston—Auto thieves in East Boston are becoming more daring. George Verdy parked his machine for an hour and a half. When he returned the engine had been removed in toto.

Cambridge, Mass.—An ice man with the poetic name of Omara Boos was suffering from appendicitis. Removal of the inflamed appendix from number of other ill chicks has resulted in their complete recovery, he says.

Chicago, Ill.—Just going out of doors ranks as a dangerous undertaking here. Of the 297 persons injured during the last week in July, 140 were foot passengers, statistics showed.

RUSS IMMIGRANTS LAND IN VERA CRUZ

Mexico City, August 9.—One hundred Russian families have arrived at Vera Cruz on their way to colonize the Mexican states of Sonora, Chihuahua and Lower California, according to a dispatch from Vera Cruz.

The leader of the immigrants declared that the Russians were not bolsheviks but represented all classes, professions and crafts.

GREEN WARNS NEGROES AGAINST LABOR MEET

Washington, August 9.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a warning to negro members of trade unions against attending the American Negro Labor congress in Chicago, October 25, which he says was called by communists.

"The American Federation of Labor has not and will not approve of such a congress," Green said. "It will not be held to benefit the negro, but to instill into the lives of that race the most pernicious doctrine—race hatred."

The organizers of the congress have headquarters in Chicago. They conduct a number of communist organizations with interlocking directorates that work under the direction of Moscow.

"Communism in America is comparable to the boll weevil in the cotton fields. Both are importations and equally injurious."

"While the convention to be held is called the American Negro Labor congress, the purpose of its organizers is to mislead the colored men into believing that all their grievances will be remedied by overturning the government of the United States and establishing a communist republic."

Otherwise the dictatorship of the proletariat. Race hatred will be encouraged to bring about this end.

"A number of unions composed of colored men have been deceived into sending delegates. They have been led to believe they will attend a congress which should be a remedy for men who are not members of trade unions or if they are they do not belong to the unions of which they are members. The organized labor movement is expelling communists as rapidly as they are found out."

DR. WILKINS SPEAKS AT AMANDA FLIPPER

A mass meeting was held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Amanda Flipper, A. M. E. church. Dr. A. M. Wilkins, president of the Citizens Trust company, delivered the principal address, his subject being "Great Thought."

Dr. Wilkins in speaking of the condition of the church declared that 75 per cent of the church members were not working for the institution and there should be a remedy for it. "It is high time church members wake up to their responsibilities," he declared. "If the negroes do this the white people will have more respect for them."

PLANS ARE MADE FOR NEGRO OUTING

The second annual outing of the colored people of Atlanta will be held in Lakewood park, Monday, August 17. Capt. Jackson McHenry, president, Tobie Grant, Rev. B. R. Holmes and L. A. Townsley delivered addresses Sunday night in Atlanta churches urging a large attendance in order that funds may be raised for worthy charities.

CARROLL COUNTY SELLS MANY MEMORIAL COINS

Carrollton, Ga., August 9.—(Special.)—At the Masonic picnic held at Burwell, the matter of the Confederate memorial coin sale was presented to the assembly by the county chairman, Mrs. Betty R. Cobb, and 200 were sold.

One hundred and sixty were taken by the Masons to be sent to the 100 children in the Children's home at Macon, which is supported by the Masons of Georgia.

Those interested in the sale of the Confederate memorial coins are grateful to Dr. J. D. Hamrick, grand master of Georgia, and Harry B. Moore, of Carrollton, who was master of ceremonies on this occasion, for making this possible.

This brings the sale in Carroll county up to approximately 2,300.

Houser To Furnish Pep for Victory Meeting at Decatur

Decatur, Ga., August 9.—(Special.) Fred Houser, of the Atlanta Convention bureau, with his "box of peppers" will furnish the entertainment feature at the "victory meeting" here Monday night when "over-the-top" reports are expected to be given in the drive of the Decatur Chamber of Commerce for a membership of 800 and a budget of $12,000.

Decatur was divided into four zones, with a captain and team workers for each zone, and a thorough canvass of the city was made last week. The Decatur campaign is expected to end with the four team workers reporting that Decatur's quota of members and money has been subscribed.

A number of speakers will be present at the meeting. J. Howell Green is president of the chamber and Charles D. McKinney is chairman of the drive committee.

It is planned to make the activities of the trade body county-wide, employing a secretary, a treasurer and a number of assistants.

All interested persons are invited to the meeting Monday night at 7:45 o'clock in the Decatur courthouse, it is announced.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO BE ORGANIZED IN BRYAN MEMORIAL

Chicago, August 9.—School children of the United States will be organized in a nation-wide plan to erect a memorial to William Jennings Bryan, it was announced here today by Miss Dionessa Bryan Evans, god-daughter of the late Congressman.

The proposed memorial will be built in Clewiston, Fla. A triangular site in the heart of the Florida city has been donated, according to Miss Evans.

The children of public and parochial schools will be asked to contribute 10 cents each to a selected committee which in turn will deposit the funds with the Liberty National Bank of New York, where permanent headquarters will be established.

Contests will be staged to select an appropriate design and a fitting epitaph.

T. J. BARRON IS SANE, LUNACY BOARD SAYS

Macon, Ga., August 9.—T. J. Barron, who took his wife's only child and two of his own children in a former marriage to Valdosta, several days ago, stopping en route at Sycamore, Ga., to send his wife a postcard, telling her that her son had been killed, which was untrue, is not crazy, a lunacy commission has just held.

Mrs. Barron who had her husband apprehended at Valdosta and brought to Macon with the children, swore out a writ of lunacy.

Barron has been set free by the Bibb county jailer on the verdict of the lunacy commission.

TACNA-ARICA PARLEY WILL CONVEY TODAY

Arica, August 9.—The Tacna-Arica plebiscite commission, under the chairmanship of General Pershing, will meet Monday and it is expected that the major problems involved in the controversy will be discussed before the meeting adjourns.

The agenda for the session includes discussion of the question of neutralization of the provinces, which also involves discussion of the presence of Chilean military forces in the province.

Further, it is understood the commission will study the problem of repatriation of persons alleged to have been expelled from the disputed area. The Peruvians will furnish names and data concerning these persons.

The rules of registration for the voting and the probable cost of the plebiscite will also be discussed.

Underwear Mills Move To Eufaula From Pennsylvania

Eufaula, Ala., August 9.—(Special.)—The Glorie Underwear mills of Reading, Pa., a $200,000 corporation, will move their plants to this city, it was officially announced Saturday after officers of the mill had spent several days in investigating this location, having been induced to come here by the Eufaula Chamber of Commerce.

S. D. Bauscher is president of the Reading bank and the chamber of commerce and owner of a number of textile mills and he intends moving an underwear mill, a hosiery mill and a dyeing and bleaching plant to Eufaula.

The mill will be started this fall and the old Dean and Moore warehouse will be overhauled and used as the factory building.

Chinese Employees At British Embassy In Peking on Strike

Peking, August 9.—(AP)—The Chinese employees at the British legation and the electric power house walked out this morning. The strikers aggregate 200.

The legation appealed to the Chinese foreign office for relief and the foreign office sent a representative and two police captains to the headquarters of the strikers, who control the situation among the strikers.

The spokesman for the strikers is said to have informed the embassy that the strikers were eager to return to their duties if assured of police protection.

KENTUCKIAN ACCUSED OF KILLING OFFICER

Madisonville, Ky., August 9.—(AP) Lee Tap, 35, tonight was being held in jail here without bail charged with the murder Saturday night of County Patrolman John Allen at a dance near Beulah, eight miles from Madisonville.

The killing occurred when Allen attempted to remove a man from an automobile. A shot fired from a shotgun by an assailant hidden in a clump of bushes 20 feet away killed the officer instantly.

Volume of Wholesale Trade And Freight Shipments Show Increase; Production Slumps

Prices of Farm Products and Food Advance, Federal Reserve Board Finds in Its Monthly Review.

Washington, August 9.—(AP)—Production of basic commodities and factory employment over the country declined further in June, the federal reserve board said today in its monthly review, but railway shipments and the volume of wholesale trade increased.

Wholesale prices, after declining for two months, advanced 1.4 per cent. The largest increase for any commodity group was for the miscellaneous, which includes crude rubber. Prices of farm products, food, and fuel and lighting also advanced. In the first half of July quotations on flour, beef, hogs, wool, copper, petroleum, hides and rubber increased, while prices of sugar, bituminous coal and hardwood lumber declined.

The decline in the production of basic commodities was placed at 1 per cent, bringing it to the lowest level since last autumn. This production, however, was 17 per cent above the low point of last summer during the presidential campaign.

Steel Production Slumps.
The output of pig iron, steel mill, lumber and petroleum and the mill consumption of cotton fell in June, while production of bituminous coal, sole leather and wheat flour increased. The number of automobiles manufactured during June was slightly less than in May.

Factory employment declined 1 per cent and factory pay rolls fell off more than 2 per cent between May 15 and June 15, reflecting substantial declines in the automobile, boot and shoe, textile and iron and steel industries.

Building contracts awarded during June were larger in value than during May and almost equalled the peak figure in April. Residential contracts in June were the smallest for a month since last February, but greatly exceeded those of a year ago.

Sales at department stores in June were seasonally smaller than in May, but totaled 5 per cent more than a year ago. Mail order sales were 6 per cent larger than in May and also exceeded the amount of June, 1924.

Volume of Loans Increase.
At member banks in leading cities, the review said, "the volume of loans on securities continued to increase after the middle of June, and during the first half of July was at a higher level than any previous time. Demand for bank credit for commercial purposes was relatively inactive, and the volume of commercial loans at reporting member banks remained near the low level for this year, although considerably above the amount for the corresponding period in 1924."

"At the reserve banks, the seasonal demand for credit and currency was reflected in increased borrowings by member banks, which carried discounts at the beginning of July to the highest level in more than a year and notwithstanding subsequent decline, the total of July 22 was still at a relatively high level. Total earning assets on that date showed little change as compared with the figures for four weeks earlier."

The firmness in the money market at the close of the fiscal year was followed by an easing of money after the first of July. In the latter part of the month there was again evidence of firmness in money conditions. These changes were reflected chiefly in the movement of rates for call money, quoted rates on prime commercial paper and on bankers' acceptances, remaining throughout the period of 3 3/4 to 4 and 3 1/4 per cent."

GREAT INVESTMENT BANKING COMPANY FORMED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill., August 9.—(Special.) Formation of a nation-wide investment banking company in Chicago by William Wrigley, Jr., John Hertz, Albert D. Lasker, John R. Thompson, Lawrence Stern, and a group of other widely known business leaders became known today.

The new firm will be known as Lawrence Stern and company. It will conduct a general investment banking business, specializing in underwriting and wholesale distribution of real estate mortgage securities and will be headed by Lawrence Stern, one of the best known real estate mortgage bankers of the country.

The board of directors will be: William Wrigley, Jr., president of William Wrigley, Jr. company; John Hertz, president of the Yellow Cab Manufacturing and Associated companies; Albert D. Lasker, president of Lord & Thomas and chairman of the United States shipping board under President Harding; John R. Thompson, chairman of the board of the American Telephone and Telegraph company; Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Peabody Coal company and chairman of the executive committee of the Consumers' company; Charles A. McCulloch, president of the Parmelee company; Herbert L. Stern, president of the Balaban and Katz corporation; Alfred Ertling, Joseph J. Rice and President Lawrence Stern.

Chicago bankers and security dealers have evinced an unusual interest in announcement of the new firm.

Half Bank Acceptances Were Drawn To Finance Agricultural Products

Washington, August 9.—(AP)—Approximately one-half of the bankers' acceptances, purchased outright by the federal reserve banks in March and April, were drawn to finance the marketing and storing of agricultural products. In making this announcement today, the federal reserve board said that during the two months, the reserve banks purchased $247,000,000 of bankers' acceptances.

Of the total, $87,000,000 was drawn to finance imports, $77,000,000 to finance exports, $29,000,000 to finance domestic transactions, including to a large extent storage of agricultural staples in elevators and warehouses awaiting export, and $24,000,000 to finance the storage and shipment of goods between foreign countries.

"Before the federal reserve system was established," the statement said, "this convenient and economical way of financing the marketing of crops by the use of American bankers' acceptances was not available, and a large part of our foreign trade was financed through the use of acceptances drawn on foreign banks, which involved the payment of commissions and discounts in foreign markets."

"The federal reserve act made it possible for banks in this country to accept drafts, and the federal reserve banks, by standing ready to purchase acceptances, have fostered an acceptance market in this country, the extent of which is indicated by the fact that there is now outstanding at different times of the year between $800,000,000 and $800,000,000 of bankers' acceptances."

"Through the acceptance market, facilities have been provided also for financing the storage and shipment of American farm products by exporters and cooperative marketing associations at lower rates and more conveniently than was possible before."

New York, August 9.—Sales of the United States Rubber company for the first half of 1926 amounted to $2,500,000, an increase of $1,700,000, or 18.97 per cent over the corresponding period last year. Net income, after deducting $2,985,470 interest on the funded indebtedness, amounted to $5,575,294. This compared with $4,222,487 for the first six months of 1925, an increase of $1,352,807, or 32.88 per cent. U. S. Rubber, chairman, stated that the high price of crude rubber for several months has substantially increased the profits of the plantation companies owned by United States Rubber, but as yet no part of the profits has been included in the company's income.

Recent strength of the railroad shares has been attributed in some quarters to the fact that some of the major differences among the "big four" of eastern trunk line executives have been patched up, and that only a few obstacles now stand in the way for general agreement on eastern railroad consolidations. Owing to some of these officials being on vacation, no definite announcement is expected until next month. Meanwhile, Wall Street is attempting to discount coming events through the stock market.

A survey made by the New York Cotton exchange shows that G. L. Murray and Sons own the world's largest cotton plantation at Crockett, Texas, which embraces approximately 17,000 acres, of which 12,000 acres are planted in cotton. The crop averages between 6,000 and 8,000 bales a year and has been as high as 12,000 bales in one year.

BROWN, BOVERI & CO., LTD. — Electrical Manufacturers

"Adequate protection of large electrical systems must be secured if reliable service is to be rendered."

"Manufacturers of oil breakers and utility engineers are faced with the problem of developing the best possible oil breakers, and it is fitting they should co-operate fully in solving the problem. The tests made by the American Gas & Electric Company and described in this issue show that co-operative tests make possible the use of actual system capacities for breaker tests which give data of great value."

"The high-voltage tests described are of great interest because of the voltage used, the capacities interrupted and the type of breaker tested. Multiple-break oil breakers have been used for several years in Europe and by one or two utilities in this country. The tests show that the multiple-break type of equipment can handle large-capacity circuits at high voltage very successfully even though several cycles elapse before the circuit is interrupted."

"There is much to be done in determining whether breakers can be made to handle two or three million kilovolt-amperes successfully, and co-operative tests of the kind described in this issue furnish data and stimulation of the competitive development essential to the progress of the industry."

From an editorial in the Electrical World (the authoritative mouthpiece of the Electric Industry).

What Results from Competitive Development for Utilities—

THE Value of Competitive Development to the public is clearly indicated in a comparison of public utility and railroad rates over a period of years. For example, in 1905 a kilowatt hour of electric energy for household use, in New York City, cost 20c; today it costs 7c. In the same period railroad passenger and freight rates in the United States have doubled and trebled.

This comparison is all the more remarkable when it is considered that both the Electric Utilities and the Railroads have the same fundamental operating problems, and expenses. Both convert fuel and labor into public service, the Utilities in the form of electric energy, the Railroads in the form of transportation. They both require great quantities of steel, iron and building materials, as well as finished machinery every year, they must both maintain and operate tremendously expensive plants.

Competitive Development more Resultful than Government Regulation

Railroad rates, closely scrutinized as they are by Federal and State Commissions, have, in late years, advanced more or less in proportion to the advances in the raw materials they convert. Although the Utilities convert, for the public use, identically the same materials, their rates, at the same time, have steadily decreased.

Present in the Utility business must be, therefore, an element which is not present in the Railroad situation. And it is evident that the element is not one of outside regulation. The explanation is quite simple. Twenty years ago electric generating stations were small and isolated; today they are huge and interconnected. Twenty years ago several pounds of coal were required to produce a kilowatt hour of energy; today a modern generating station requires a little more than a pound. This economy was brought about by the competitive development of the great manufacturers of the electrical and mechanical apparatus used by Utilities.

Twenty years ago the Utilities were still using reciprocating steam engines for generating electric energy, such as we see today applied in steam locomotive practice. Ten years ago a turbo generator of 10,000 kva was a large one, today 50,000 kva units are common.

Economy from Improved Machinery

The Utilities have proved by their consistent growth and reduction in rates that it is not competition between themselves or outside control or regulation that reduces operating costs and consumers rates. Their consistent demand on the manufacturers for improvements in design and efficiency of system and equipment has produced this splendid result. Today a Utility could not afford to purchase, at any price, a unit which was perfectly satisfactory ten years ago. It would cost too much to run it. The same will be true ten years from now.

We esteem it a privilege to place the resources of this great organization and its associated Companies at the command of American Utilities and Railroads.

Structural Engineers See Continued Growth

Local Firm With Wide Connections Predicts Stable Prosperity and Jump in Building Work.

Among the leading structural and architectural designers and consulting engineers, Atlanta furnishes more than its quota to the nation and at the topmost rank of the profession stands the local firm of Spiker and Lose, with offices in the Forsyth building. Established nearly two decades ago, in 1906, it rapidly took a commanding position in its field and steadily has grown and expanded the scope of its work until it has a clientele which reaches throughout the southern states and into adjoining sections. In this ultra modern age expert judgment is an essential which the builder never overlooks. Speed and accuracy go hand in hand with quality, and the designing of huge structures and the outlining of methods which must be followed by workers in whatever structural undertaking is in view, is of vital importance. Spiker and Lose specialize in this work.

The firm's experts are men who have come out of colleges and great universities with visions of a great America—just as other great designers have visioned. Designers have pictured in their minds the towering structures which make up the modern city, the magnificent bridges which span the great rivers, the elevated railway and the underground systems—all these necessities in the great American life.

Atlanta is fortunate in having such experts, in being able to have firms of the standing attained by Spiker and Lose. The city, as a result, owes much to designing and consulting engineers.

Members of Spiker and Lose enjoy that confidence of their associates which leaders are given; they take a lively interest in the city's expansion, in its civic undertakings and in other phases of its growth and prosperity, they have confidence in the city and have made it "home."

In a statement, recently the firm's heads pointed out the general increase in many cities in the south in structural work as an infallible barometer of the south's up-bill progress. Members of the firm had gone over the section interviewing clients and discussing various business subjects. The information gained reflects the stability of conditions and the collection of the data is highest evidence of the interest Spiker and Lose is taking in continuing this progress.

Atlanta is blessed with having such energetic and firm believers.

Expert Electrical Mechanics Erect Very Fine Model Plant

Two first class electrical mechanics, R. H. Cleveland and S. H. Browning, both having over 20 years' experience in electrical shops, have just recently entered into partnership and are located at 556-557 Marietta street.

These young men decided to go in business for themselves some four or five years ago and from that time they began to plan a model electric shop that would be one of the best in this U. S. A. They then bought a fine location on Marietta street that is easily accessible from all parts of Atlanta and planned a model plant to carry all the latest equipment used in their line.

These young men must have planned well for the fine large two-story shale brick building their contractors have turned over to them is a splendid acquisition to Atlanta; not only is this a fine looking building from the outside but it is also a very pleasant place to work in, having plenty of light and air and nice shower baths.

The equipment consists of the very latest in the electrical work shop and this coupled with the splendid experience these men have had, Mr. Cleveland being foreman for the Bryan Electric company for 16 years and Mr. Browning being with Birmingham and Atlanta firms over 20 years.

Mr. Browning is the inventor of a coil winding machine that is recognized by experts as the best in the country. This machine is now used extensively by all the big electrical companies, several hundred of them having been made here in Atlanta during the past few years.

Mr. Browning has made a very careful study of the motor and re-winding department during the past 15 years and Mr. Cleveland has given close attention to the other departments in electrical shop work.

As their building is fireproof they can give assurance that anything entrusted to their care for any repair will not be in danger of being destroyed by fire, and as they will give special attention to motor repairs and armature winding they will do much work for large and small firms two and three hundred miles from Atlanta. Among some of the work they will do in Atlanta and vicinity is electric elevator service. They have done much of this work with their other connections and are well and favorably known in this field. They will give a day or night service and inspection, and by inspection they mean to carefully look over and inspect every elevator of their customers every few days, replacing any part that might look weak or worn.

As they built their building with care, so they expect to build their business and anybody in the south that wants first class electrical repair work done can rest assured that if this Marietta street firm does their work it will be done well.

Atlanta Home-Owners Seek Heating Plants

With the approach of cooler weather, the question of heating the home makes its annual appearance. Ways and means are discussed and the replacement of coal with oil, a prominent place among modern heating methods.

There seems to be an impression among the Atlanta home-owners that heating is a separate and distinct system in itself—that is, that furnaces and radiators are not required, and in order to eliminate the question of the writer dropped in at the office of the Automatic Heating, Inc., 528 Peachtree street, to find out just what oil heating is. Automatic Heating, Inc., are the exclusive distributors for NoKOL—which is just what the name implies—"No Coal."

In order to install NoKOL in your home, the complete heating system, either hot air, hot water, steam, or vapor, is necessary, and oil is burned instead of coal—cleanliness, uniformity of temperature and comfort are the results.

Another erroneous impression which was cleared up is that NoKOL is for the wealthy home owner only. This is not true. It is not a luxury, but a comfort which can be, and is enjoyed by families of modest means and homes—families who cannot afford the exclusive services of a furnace man—men whose businesses take them away for days at a time, when their families are left to struggle with the problem of keeping the house warm.

NoKOL solves the problem with its automatic thermostat control. No one needs to go to the basement—set the thermostat at the temperature desired, and the heating system operates automatically.

NoKOL numbers among its users many of the most enthusiastic boosters—men who have personally battled with the coal and ash problem, and appreciate the contrast with NoKOL.

A detailed description of the mechanism cannot be given satisfactorily in this space, but visitors will be welcomed at the office of the Automatic Heating, Inc., 528 Peachtree street, or a call on the telephone, HEmluck 1543, will bring a representative to your home or office.

Peachtree Furnace Man Very Busy These Days

It is being predicted quite freely that the coming winter will be unusually severe, and if this is so many homes in Atlanta will be nicely taken care of this year, according to W. T. Jameson, of 524 Peachtree street.

The reason of Mr. Jameson making this statement is that he has had a good force of men busy for the past 60 days installing the Weir all-steel furnace, made in Peoria, Ill., by the Royal Furnace, made by Hart & Crouse, of Utica, N. Y.

Mr. Jameson has the agency for Georgia and Florida for these splendid furnaces. He has had the recognized leaders in the furnace world here his splendid territory for years to come.

As these are welded furnaces, they are especially adapted for oil as well as coal burning as there are no joints for gases to escape. Oil-burners like NoKOL render extraordinary good service when used in connection with these furnaces.

Mr. Jameson is lining up a fine lot of local dealers in both states to handle these old reliable makes of furnaces in their local territories and expects to make a record in sales from Georgia and Florida this season.

Their salesroom here in Atlanta contains several types of both make and a cordial invitation is being extended by Mr. Jameson to the public and dealers to come to their salesroom at 528 Peachtree street and look at the Weir and Royal lines over.

As they have a fine force of skilled furnace men, Mr. Jameson states they are repairing every line of furnace made and he is carrying a large stock of everything needed to replace worn out parts of all makes and all work of this kind is being done well on short notice.

Atlanta Man Probably Oldest Gas Service Man in World

Harvey Weatherly, one of the most popular gas service men in Atlanta and vicinity, has secured a five-year lease on the station at the corner of Ivy and Baker streets and gone in business for himself.

Mr. Weatherly is probably one of the oldest men in point of years in the gas service business in Atlanta if not in the world. When you consider the fact that the first drive in gas service station in the world was built right here in Atlanta and as Mr. Weatherly began at the same time the same year this station was built it is doubtful if there is any one in this or any other country who has antedated him in the service line.

Mr. Weatherly was a popular salesman in a Five Points cigar store and manager of the White Cap baseball team, Atlanta's strongest semi-professional team 18 or 19 years ago, when he took charge of a small service station. From that time on his old-time friends drive at times many blocks out of their way to wherever he was located to give him their trade.

Mr. Weatherly has ever been a tireless worker for his former employer, endeavoring at all times to ever increase the trade of that particular location where he was stationed and through his affable and accommodating manner made good friends of every new and old customer.

In his own station he will greatly appreciate the trade of his old and new friends and is so conveniently located in a semi-central location that is easily accessible that they can get quick service at all times. A special invitation is extended to everybody to drive their car over his pit where his colored boys will clean and oil all the under parts of your car.

Due to the special equipment installed this will not take over five minutes but will do much to prolong the life of your car. This extra service is free to you.

Mr. Weatherly is giving a tire and battery service and has an expert battery man of many years' experience looking after this department and also carrying over parts of all makes and all work of this kind is being done well on short notice.

Friends and customers not finding parking space downtown will feel assured that their car will be all right if parked within sight of Mr. Weatherly's station, as he believes in serving his friends at all times.

THE GUMPS—IF WINTER COMES

The Golden Beast

—BY—

E. Phillips Oppenheim

"So do I," Samuel echoed. "Money was meant to keep and make more money," Reuben continued. "When you have to buy anything, then you ought to buy it so cheap that you can always get your money back for it when you want to. Hold up your finger a minute, Bessie." Bessie obeyed, and Reuben looked ecstatically at the gem which glistened upon her finger.

"Fourteen pounds five I gave for that," he announced. "Fourteen pounds five, a hot brandy and water and a glass of beer is just what it cost. It's worth forty pounds if it's worth a penny. That's the way to spend money, Samuel, if you must spend it."

"It isn't all of us who have your opportunities," Samuel complained. "You can make them," Reuben insisted. "To buy cheap is as easy as to buy dear."

"I wonder whether Mollie Bentley would do for Samuel?" Bessie suggested. "Her father maybe hasn't got as much money as Mr. Higgins, but she's real careful and she's looking for a steady chap to keep company with."

Samuel had a hot brandy and water and a glass of beer is just what it cost. It's worth forty pounds if it's worth a penny. That's the way to spend money, Samuel, if you must spend it.

"I don't want a girl at all," he pronounced. "They're nothing but an expense to take round and I'm not for marrying."

"That don't seem natural to me," Bessie objected. "A young fellow like you, Samuel, ought to be thinking about it."

"You want a family, don't you?" Reuben put in. "There ain't anything in life like seeing plenty of them round the table. That's what I tell Bessie and get my ears boxed for it."

"And serve you right, too," the young woman retorted, with your brazen talk."

Samuel was looking thoughtful. There was an expression in his face which had more than once puzzled his cousin's wife.

"It seems to me," he said slowly, "I've a kind of feeling as though I'd got a girl somewhere."

"For land's sake!" Bessie exclaimed. "Perhaps you're married."

"No, I ain't married," Samuel replied confidently. "All the same, I got a girl somewhere. Seems to have passed out of my memory where she is just now, but I got the feeling just the same. I shall just wait. She'll come along some day."

"It do seem to me as though you two were crazy sometimes," Bessie declared, replenishing the teapot. "It's a good thing for you both I ain't a curious person, for two more mystical young men about your early days I never met with. Why, we've been married now goodness knows how long, and Reuben hasn't as much as told me where he was brought up. Might have dropped from the skies into Norwich, or been let down in one of them airplanes. And now there's you, Samuel, very nearly the same. It's a sneaky business."

Reuben leaned over and patted her hand. There was a quality of earnestness in his face which made him almost good looking.

"That doesn't need to worry you, Bessie, old girl," he assured her. "The great thing is that you and me are husband and wife. Might be the youngster to start with, and if I'm a bit hazy about my folk we'll soon have a family of our own. Aye, and a fortune, too."

"If he isn't off again," Bessie laughed. "Why, who's this?" she went on. "That don't seem right for anyone to be walking in on us so casual."

The front door had been opened and closed. There were steps in the passage. The door of the room was opened. Joseph stood on the threshold, looking upon them.

"Good evening, Ernest. Good evening, Samuel," he said. "I thought I should find you here."

There was a moment's awe and rather wonderful silence. Both Reuben and Samuel had risen to their feet and were staring at the newcomer. There was no surprise in their faces, only a curious anticipatory interest. Bessie, on the other hand, was frankly bewildered.

"It's dad," Reuben exclaimed. "It's Uncle Joseph," Samuel echoed. "Your child Ernest?" Joseph asked eagerly, making his way round to the other side of the room and bending over the bassinet.

"Mine," Reuben assented. "My wife, Bessie, dad—the best in the world."

Joseph handled the baby for a moment affectionately and the child responded to his advances with spirit. Then he replaced it gently in its bassinet, turned to Bessie and kissed her on the forehead.

"Well, well," he murmured. "I'll take a cup of tea, my dear, and a plate of fish, Ernest, if you've got it to spare."

"His name's Reuben," Bessie protested wonderfully. "Why do you call him Ernest?" Samuel did when he first came."

"Reuben Ernest" he was christened, my dear," his father explained. "We didn't care so much for Reuben as he grew up, so we generally called him Ernest." "Klask" was my name a long time ago—a very long time. I changed it. I really don't remember why. This is good fish, Reuben, and well cooked, daughter-in-law."

She was trembling a little, as well she might. This middle-aged man, with his quiet manners and general air of having slipped so naturally into the place, baffled her completely. Reuben had sometimes seemed to her a mystery; Samuel and his coming had often perplexed her; but this was the most amazing happening of all. Nevertheless, she remembered her first duties. She made his tea carefully and cut him bread and butter.

"Have you come far?" she asked. "My dear," he confided. "I'm in a very curious position. I was somewhere—perhaps it was in London—when I suddenly felt I must find Ernest. Now we're all three here together—Samuel, too. Capital! We might start some business. I've brought money with me, Ernest."

"Thank heaven you all bring a bit!" Bessie gasped. "But I wonder how many more there are of you?"

"Yes, quite a little money," Joseph continued, eating his fish all the time with appetite.

"Dad," Reuben intervened abruptly. "There's someone I want to ask about. It doesn't quite come back to me. It hurts because I want to know."

"Your mother, of course," Joseph declared, skillfully filling his last piece of fish. "Your mother and Joseph. Your mother has been ill, Reuben. She troubles a great deal for you, Joseph, too, is troubled. But what can one do? There they are and here we are."

"Why can't they come and see Reuben or why can't he go and see them?" Bessie demanded. "Of all the mystical creatures!"

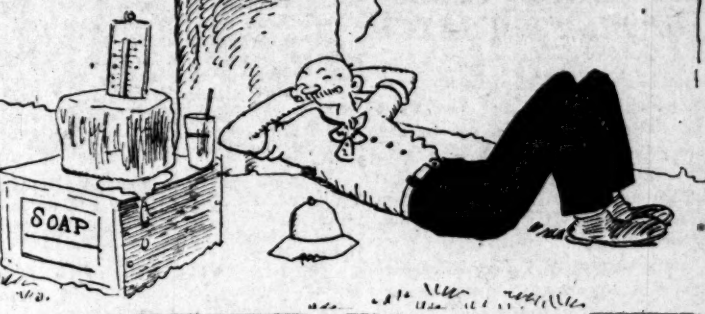

Joseph looked at her with a blank expression. Reuben shook his head as though she had asked an absurd question.

"They're over on the other side, my dear," Joseph explained kindly. "Perhaps we shall be able to let them know some day. It doesn't de-

Drunken Whale Grows Angry

SNAPS AT PROPELLER AND LOSES TEETH

When Bumped by Ocean Liner

New York, August 9.—A whale of a tale about a whale which seemed to have drunk the contents of several bottles of wine was entered in the weird library of waterfront news when the steamship President Wilson tied up in Brooklyn Sunday afternoon after a voyage from Italy.

The bar had been shut for several hours when the passengers told the story which ran about as follows:

This whale, obviously intoxicated, was lurching along the surface of the Atlantic about four days out of Lisbon, squirting water and bellowing the while equivalent of some very rude language. The captain of the President Wilson who understands whales, but doesn't speak it because he's a gentleman, heard the remarks and ordered the whale to stop talking that way in the presence of ladies.

Well, you know how useless it is to argue with a drunken whale. "So's your Aunt Clara," said the whale. "Why don't you get a book and learn how to drive that boat?" So the President Wilson sidled up to the whale and bumped him a smack on the nose.

With a loud exclamation of "Ouch!" uttered in whale of course, the low character of the ocean snapped at the President Wilson's port propeller, lost a couple of teeth, rolled over and then zigzagged away, bound, presumably for some evil sandbar. While he bellowed and cowered, according to the President Wilson's passengers, look them square in the eye and they'll sink away.

TEMPERATURE DROPS

TO MAXIMUM OF 84

After three days of excessive heat, during which the mercury rose above the 90-degree mark each day, Atlanta enjoyed a comparatively cool Sunday, the temperature ranging between 72 and 84 degrees.

The forecast for the state today and Tuesday, according to the Washington bureau, is "partly cloudy; probably local thunderstorms in the southern portion of the state."

No paper in the South is known so well to farmers as The Tri-Weekly Constitution.

It was a great publication during the days of Henry W. Grady.

- It was a Weekly in those days—but for a great many years it has been an every-other-day paper.
- It has always wielded a great influence with Southern farmers.
- For over half century it has advised with them—and they are now coming into their own.
- The farm trade of the Southeast is well worth going after.

TOO HOT TO TALK, BUT DAWES TELLS OF BIG FISH CATCH

Omaha, Neb., August 9.—(AP)—When newspapers met Vice President Charles G. Dawes, en route to Chicago at the conclusion of a western vacation in his car here last night, they found him in his bare feet, collared and "breaking in" a new pipe. He was decidedly ruffled.

When he greeted C. W. Delamater, Omaha attorney and former college mate, Delamater suggested he talk with the reporters first.

"It's too darned hot to talk," he replied. However, he warmed up to fish stories and told one of his own about a fish two feet long he had caught on his trip.

FRIENDS OF SCOPES' PLAN SCHOLARSHIP AT JOHNS HOPKINS

Baltimore, Md., August 9.—John T. Scopes, the erstwhile Dayton, Tenn., high school teacher and defendant in the recent evolution trial there, will come to Johns Hopkins university with a $5,000 scholarship, if plans of his friends go through.

Request for the scholarship has already been made in behalf of Scopes, Dr. Joseph S. Ames, acting president of the university, said Sunday.

The university catalog and schedule of courses has been sent to Scopes, but no reply has been received from him. Dr. Ames says it is Scopes' next move.

DR. HENRY FOX TO STAND TRIAL

Macon, Ga., August 9.—The congregation of the Tattall Square Baptist church today ordered Dr. Henry Fox, deposed biologist of Mercer university, to stand trial for unorthodoxy on or before September 2.

The removal of Dr. Fox at Mercer followed allegations that he was teaching evolution, but the direct charges under which he was removed were that his religious beliefs were unorthodox.

Since then Dr. Fox has entered government service at Riverton, N. J., and several months ago he asked for a letter of withdrawal from the local church to a New Jersey church.

However, in the correspondence that followed, Dr. Fox was given opportunity to withdraw his membership in the local church. This he declined to do.

The letter, which went to Dr. Fox today, requires Dr. Fox to show cause why he should not be dropped from membership of the church.

After the introductory paragraphs, today's letter says:

"We will now make an effort to ascertain your views on matters which we consider vital, and will allow our future actions to be determined by your answers to the questions we are submitting after we have declared our own position."

"Here is our declaration: Tattall Square Baptist church, univocally declares its belief that the Lord Jesus Christ was begotten of the Virgin Mary by the Holy Spirit (Luke 1:26-35; Matt. 1:18-25), which means, as we hold, that He was God-only begotten (John 1:18) and did not enter the world by ordinary human generation. We further declare our unqualified belief in the deity of the Lord Jesus Christ. To say these things is to reaffirm what this church has consistently held and preached throughout its history."

"Our question to you is this: Do you or do you not unequivocally share these beliefs? Kindly answer 'yes' or 'no.'"

"No further action will be taken by us until you have had ample time to answer the question, and we will add that if you can answer 'yes,' it will be a matter for rejoicing among us. In the meantime, we hold open the door to your withdrawal if you wish to reconsider your decision in reference to this."

In his letter of July 23, to the church, Dr. Fox asks that the church put its question to him in writing, whether it does or does not endorse the following principle:

"Within a Baptist church, the individual member, in the exercise of the soundness of his own doctrinal views, and in agreement with this principle, is free to formulate the curriculum of his own doctrinal views, and in conformity with that which he believes to be reliable knowledge and sound moral principle, without dictation or interference from any human source whatever. Do you or do you not unequivocally indorse this principle?"

ARMED BANDIT GETS $12,000 IN HOLDUP CHICAGO THEATER

Chicago, August 9.—(AP)—An armed robber escaped with $12,000 from the offices of the State and Lake theater in the heart of the theater district here tonight. The theater office from a lobby entrance, cowed five persons therein with a revolver, grabbed the cash and then was lost in the crowd.

PIANOS TO FURNISH MUSIC TO PATRONS OF MOVIES TODAY

Pianos will replace orchestras today in four of the principal moving picture theaters of Atlanta unless some unforeseen agreement is reached between the theater managers' organization, headed by Willard C. Patterson, and the Atlanta Federation of Musicians, of which Carl Karston is president.

No action was taken Sunday by either side, although Mr. Karston issued a statement declaring that the musicians were not responsible for the trouble.

If we can arrange it, the musicians will give a farewell concert to Atlanta people before leaving," he said. "However, no tangible plans have been made as yet."

The trouble arose some time ago when the musicians demanded an increase in salary. No agreement was reached on the subject and orchestras were ousted from Alamo No. 2, Howard, Metropolitan and Rialto theaters.

CARL S. HUTCHESON INJURED BY AUTO

Carl S. Hutcheson, of 65 East Park Lane, received bruises and lacerations about the knees and left Sunday night when he was knocked down by an automobile driven by a Mrs. Baslin, whose address was not learned.

He was crossing the street in front of his home. His injuries were slight. Hutcheson stated that the accident was unavoidable and no case was made.

Mrs. Lela Manning, 37, of 249 Whitehall street, Sunday was treated at Grady hospital for bruises and lacerations about the body said to have been received in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Manning declined to state where the accident occurred or to give any details, and no report is on file at police headquarters. Her condition is not serious, physicians stated.

T. C. Norsworthy, of 85 Flora avenue, early Sunday night suffered a lacerated right knee and cut over the left ear, when he was knocked down by a sedan driven by Mrs. W. T. Haygood, of 107 Rine Ridge avenue, according to police reports.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Edgewood avenue and Yonge street. Mrs. Haygood stopped her car and drove the victim to Grady hospital where an X-ray examination failed to show any broken bones.

Patrolmen Wallace and Faulkner were told by the injured man that the accident was unavoidable. He stated that he stepped suddenly in front of the machine as he attempted to catch a street car on Edgewood avenue. No case was made.

TWO RESIDENCES DAMAGED BY FIRE

The residence of S. Lively, 46 Oliver street, was damaged by smoke, water and flames about 3:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Flames believed to have been caused by defective wiring Sunday morning caused considerable damage to the one-story residence occupied by Hattie Bilbs, neglected of 121 East Cain street. The flames are believed to have started in the attic of the residence.

SYRIAN SITUATION IS HELD SERIOUS

Paris, August 9.—Premier Painleve, following receipt of part of a dispatch from General Sarrail, has issued the first explanation of the massacre of 100 French troops and the capture of a supply convoy by Djebel Druze tribesmen in Syria. While Painleve gave no hint of it, what he said is taken to indicate that the Syrian situation is serious.

Simultaneously, the premier published the report of Marshal Pétain regarding Morocco. In both instances, the gist of the French position is that their troops were suddenly attacked by greatly superior forces of natives.

Pétain apparently, the attack in Syria was directed at our troops as a result of unimportant circumstances having as their origin dissension among the tribesmen. Painleve said, explaining that there was some difference among the Druzes on the question of loyalty to France.

The agitation having become lively among the Druze, small columns were sent to make them respect orders.

One, composed of 166 men, entered the Djebel Druze territory. It was not surprised, as reported, but surrounded and literally submerged by a tide of aggressors.

"Our soldiers defended themselves valiantly, but broke under superior numbers and only 60 escaped massacre."

Pétain paints a vivid picture of the French difficulties in fighting the Riffs, pays strong tribute to the achievements of French troops engaged in this precarious warfare, and promises that with new reinforcements, they will soon demonstrate their complete superiority over the tribesmen.

SEPTEMBER LIST

HAVE YOU DECIDED your housing question for the coming year? In case you have not we advise that you do so immediately. It is true that there are a large number of apartment buildings in the city, but a large number of them have already been leased for the coming year. The most desirable of these left will not last long. Nowhere will there be found a more complete list of modern apartments. Most of the apartments under our management have been erected within the past few years, and are in good condition. We will make any replacements, repairs and decorations that are necessary in any of our apartments. Stop in wherever you see our sign, and the janitor and caretakers have complete information as to the apartments for rent, and will gladly show you through. Prices are more reasonable than ever.
